French Drive Back Savage Rebel Assault in Indochina

Helps the Crippled

Easter Seal Drive To Start Thursday

EXPRESSING SHEER joy at taking a step is little Vicki Lynn Kaelber, 3½, Marion County Easter Seal Girl. Vicki Lynn is learning to walk with the help of her mother, Mrs. Maurice F. Kaelber of 300 E. George St. and funds made available by the Society for Crippled Children. The society's annual drive for funds begins March 18.

Vicki Lynn Kaelber—1954 Marion County Easter Seal Girl—posed for her picture the other day. She wore a beige dress with a purple belt and her hair in long curls and she was very much a charmer, especially when she smiled.

Vicki Lynn is three and one-half years old and really showing remarkable progress. She can sit in a chair by herself now, plays with toys, feeds herself like a little lady, and even takes a few steps if her mother is there to help her — and if she wears her braces.

VICKI LYNN couldn't do any of these things last summer.

She has cerebral palsy, and because she tries so hard and has made such great progress, she was chosen the Marion County Easter Seal Girl.

Vicki Lynn is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice F. Kaelber of 300 E. George St. Her father is the assistant manager of the Marion Milling Co.

She travels each Tuesday to the Franklin County cerebral palsy center in Columbus for treatment and it is because of this that her improvement has been made. Vicki Lynn's mother gets training there, too, so she can work with Vicki Lynn at home.

THE TWO KAELBER ladies have a daily routine of physical and occupational therapy that is helping a beautiful young child recover from the crippling effects of cerebral palsy.

Her braces and her first trips to Columbus were financed by the Marion County Society for Crippled Children. And that is probably the reason Vicki Lynn wants everyone to buy Easter Seals this year.

NATIONAL EASTER SEAL month begins March 18, and the goal in Marion is $10,000.

Residents in Marion County will receive the seals through the mail, or they can buy them through the schools or on buy "lilies" on the street corners April 10. Seventy-six per cent of the money stays right here in Marion County and the rest is always available if needed. Between 50 and 60 children and adults received aid from the society last year.

Bus Company Gives Plan for Local Service

Firm in Springfield Would Ask Merchants To Purchase Tokens

A tentative offer for starting a new bus company in Marion was made to Mayor Harold F. Robinson today by Chester Baker, president of the Springfield Transit Co.

Mayor Robinson said Baker's offer was to bring in buses and start service providing the company would be backed by merchants through the sale of tokens.

No other details of the Springfield company's plans were known, he said, except that Baker wanted the operation to be tried on a 90-day trial basis

Meeting Scheduled

Before making a definite commitment, Baker asked for a meeting with city officials, City Councilmen, Chamber of Commerce officials, interestrd merchants, and any other interested persons, Mayor Robinson reported.

He said the meeting has been called for 10:30 a.m. Wednesday in his office in city hall.

Meanwhile, the tentative offer of Rolland E. St. Johns of Dayton to start a bus company here was withdrawn Saturday. St. Johns said after survey of Marion and a study of operating expenses and income furnished by Floyd Kreisel, former president of the now defunct Marion Transit Co., he had decided to withdraw his proposition.

He said his survey indicated a new bus company in Marion would lose money for about a year and he didn't feel in a position to risk the capital necessary to start a company here.

Cites Need for Support

He, too, mentioned the need for some local group to back any company which would start here. He said apparently "the only way Marion will get a new bus company to start in business will be for some civic group to cover its losses for about a year."

He added that when he first made his offer two weeks ago today, he thought he had necessary spare buses he could bring in from other lines in other cities. He later learned he had no spare equipment and did not wish to purchase new buses for use in Marion, he said.

St. Johns was the first to indicate interest in starting a company here after the Marion Transit Co. quit business three weeks ago in the face of mounting losses.

Speaking of the offer made by Baker, Mayor Robinson, said he was not certain of all the details of his plan but understood Baker to say that he would like to get a commitment from merchants to purchase a minimum of $50 worth of bus tokens a day until the company could get on its feet.

400 Lions, Wives Attend Sessions Here

Members of District Nominate Fremont Man as Governor

Approximately 400 Lions Club members from 44 Lions Clubs in northern and central Ohio, comprising District 13-E, and their wives, were in Marion Saturday and Sunday for the annual convention of the district.

Robert Scott of Marion, district governor, presided for the weekend activities.

Officially nominated for district governor for 1954-55 was Carl Yingling of Fremont, who served as senior deputy district governor during the past year, under District Governor Scott. He is scheduled to be elected at the state convention to be held May 14-15 in Cleveland. Advancing to senior deputy next year will be Dr. Robert Tracht of Crestline, who has served as junior deputy.

The financial report was given by Bethel R. Hurst of Marion, who served as cabinet secretary and treasurer.

District Governor Scott, in his report to the district members, said there has been a membership gain in the past year of 249, with seven new clubs started, making the total number of clubs in the district 44.

BOWLING AWARDS as a result of a district bowling tournament held recently at Fostoria were presented by Ed Elkington of Fostoria.

Preceding the business session, a necrology srevice honoring 14 Lions members from the district who have died in the past year was conducted with William Thomas in charge. Several numbers were presented by the Harding High School Choir, under the

Key Fortress Defended by Paratroopers

Rush Reinforcements By Plane To Bolster Vietnamese Garrison

HANOI, Indochina (AP) — The French parachuted reinforcements today into the Dien Bien Phu fortress as the Communist-led Vietminh hurled thousands more troops into the savage battle to drive the French out of northwest Indochina.

The rebels bombarded the dust bowl fortress with artillery shells before they launched their new series of attack.

Call Reinforcements

As the violent battle rounded out its second day, the French high command in Saigon announced that a battalion of French and Vietnamese paratroopers had jumped onto the Dien Bien Phu airstrip to reinforce the French Union garrison.

Other reinforcements were airlifted from Hanoi.

The French high command in Saigon said the French Union forces had the "situation well in hand" and were holding solidly against the "very violent" rebel attack.

A French spokesman predicted the fighting would last several days.

A three-hour cease-fire interrupted the fighting yesterday morning while both rebels and French carried their dead and wounded from the battlefield. The French claimed at least 1,000 rebels killed in the initial assault Saturday night and early yesterday, and admitted their own losses were "appreciable."

The fighting resumed at noon yesterday with a heavy rebel bombardment of the strongly fortified, French-held plain in the heart of the Thai tribal country.

Rebels Launch Attack

Then, as they had on Saturday, wave on wave of screaming, bugle blowing rebel troops surged forward against the bristling barbed wire barricades ringing the French positions.

French mobile artillery, tanks, mortars and heavy machine gun and rifle fire cut down the Vietminh by the scores. Fighters and bombers roared overhead, mowing a wide swath in the ranks of the wildly charging rebels.

The legions of Communist leader Ho Chi Minh appeared making an all-out effort to give the French a major setback before the Big Four and Communist China meet in Geneva, Switzerland, April 26 to seek a path to peace in Indochina.

The French for their part hoped

Truce Sought

McCarthy-Stevens Feud Alarms GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican leaders faced critical decisions today on strategy for bringing at least a truce in the war between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and the Army.

A prime consideration was how to keep the affair from turning into an open knock-down fight between the Wisconsin senator and the Eisenhower administration.

McCarthy and GOP leaders seemed agreed that a showdown at which he and top Army officials would testify under oath is in order to get at the truth in the welter of charges and countercharges.

Key Issues Undecided

But where and when to stage it—and whether publicly or behind closed doors—remained undecided.

One major question was: Should the investigation be entrusted to McCarthy's own subcommittee?

After Vice President Nixon's speech Saturday night, with its passages obviously directed at McCarthy, the feeling spread on Capitol Hill that a showdown must come soon.

Nixon said "reckless talk and questionable methods" in fighting communism played into the hands of opponents of the administration and that the administration insists procedures used both in the executive and legislative branches must be fair and proper.

Sets Rigid Time Limit

McCarthy set rigid time limits on any action this week.

He said last night he has room on his schedule for only one meeting of his investigations subcommittee this week—tomorrow. He said there will not be enough members available for a meeting today, and that he will leave

Plans No Switch in Tactics

Wisconsin Senator Says He'll Continue His Fight

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), embroiled in one of the most furious fights of his career, left Wisconsin yesterday after a weekend in his home state, tenaciously determined to fight communism his way "as long as I am in the United States Senate."

Since he flew in here during an icy gale Friday night with his wife, the senator:

1. Offered to step aside temporarily as chairman of his Senate investigating subcommittee and testify himself on the Cohn-Schine-Stevens controversy.

2. Said he would ask author William Buckley to pinch-hit for him in a television answer to an Edward R. Murrow program critical of McCarthy. (Murrow later refused the substitution.)

3. Told an audience of businessmen he would press his investigations into alleged internal communism no matter "how high or low those are who scream at what we are doing."

4. Scored the "shouting and hullabaloo of the past week" and told newsmen he wants answers to his questions in Maj. Irving Peress case.

"I think American people are getting awfully sick and tired of the constant yak-yaking to the effect that we haven't been gentle enough with the Communists and their protectors," said McCarthy in a press conference at Appleton shortly before flying back to Washington.

"The shouting and hullabaloo of the past week have taken the tension away from the question to which we still are awaiting an answer: Who in the military promoted Maj. Irving Peress when

Letter Writer Complains of Bingo Games

A second letter from Gov. Frank J. Lausche concerning possible gambling activities in Marion was received today by Mayor Harold F. Robinson.

The governor wrote that he had received a letter from a Marion woman March 8 complaining of the operation of bingo games in the city.

Gov. Lausche explained that he had no knowledge as to whether the letter was based on fact or not, but said he was forwarding it to Mayor Robinson only because of the "apparent distress of the writer."

Name Deleted

The governor enclosed the letter with his letter to Mayor Robinson but deleted the name of the writer.

Mayor Robinson said the letter supposedly written by the Marion woman began with the sentence, "Can't you please do something to close the bingo games in Marion?"

The woman told the governor that she has six children and that her husband and oldest son

Ike Is Reported Dubious About Tax Proposals

President Discusses Views With Leaders; Goes on Air Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was reported by congressional leaders today to feel that personal income tax cuts being urged by Democrats would endanger America's economic stability.

The President, who will address the nation on taxes tonight over major radio and TV networks, discussed his tax views with GOP legislative leaders for about an hour at the White House.

House Speaker Martin (R-Mass), talking with reporters afterward, said tax cuts already made by the administration this year and those contemplated during the rest of the year total about seven billion dollars.

He added that Eisenhower believes that to "dump another 2½ billion dollar cut on top of that would be straining it too far financially."

The House will take up Wednesday a tax revision bill calling for about $1,300,000,000 in tax reductions without touching the personal income levy rate. House Democrats

'New Look' Aired

Military Proposals Outlined by Wilson

WASHINGTON (AP) Secretary of Defense Wilson gave Congress today some details of the military "new look" — continued "rapid buildup of air strength" and an Army slimmed down by three of its present 20 divisions

Wilson outlined these plans for the year starting July 1 in testimony prepared for the armed services subcommittee of the Senate Appropriations Committee, considering the military budget.

He said the new military plans, evolving from "the crash (emergency) program that was adopted following the beginning of hostilities in Korea" are "geared to improving our state of preparedness over an extended period of time." He also said

"The military programs evolving from the 'new look' provide for the rapid integration of new weapons as they are proven and become available."

And at another point he said:

"Various new weapons have become available in increasing quantity and still newer ones are in the offing."

He did not elaborate. His comment could have referred to both new applications of atomic weapons and to various types of guided missiles, in use or still in test.

On Saturday, a high government source who would not be quoted by name indicated U.S. nuclear specialists set off a few days ago at the Eniwetok test area the big-

Late Rush Jams Office as Tax Deadline Nears

A long line of last minute "customers outside the door, to the tomers" outside the door to the Citizens Building was visible proof today that the date was March 15, commonly known as "income tax day."

John H. Sells, agent-in-charge, and his staff were assisting a steady flow of people in filling out forms. But as busy as the final day was, it did not measure up to Saturday. Sells said the line ran back to the steps of the building. Some people waited as long as an hour before the bureau doors opened at 8 a.m. At the end of the day about 240 forms had been processed and another 200 had come in to pay the tax.

He said it was impossible to determine how many Marion County residents had not yet paid their tax, since the bulk of forms were mailed to the Columbus office. Sells did say, however, that from his observations based on the forms he had processed tax refunds were running high again this year. Refunds in 1953 were the highest in the history of the tax.

The bureau office will remain open until 8 p.m. tonight.

Tornadoes Kill Eight in South Over Weekend

70 Injured, Damage To Top $23 Million; Ft. Benning Base Hit

ATLANTA (AP)—A small army of soldiers, airmen and civilians today formed a cleanup task force in the wake of weekend tornadoes which killed eight persons in central and west Georgia and did more than 23 million dollars damage to property.

Three separate twisters whirled out of the night Saturday and carried their lethal force into Macon, where three died; to a rural area near the central Georgia city, killing three others, and to Lawson Air Force Base, adjoining Ft. Benning, where two more were killed.

Four of the dead were children.

Seventy persons were injured and 23 hospitalized.

The tornadoes slammed into the same general areas where similar storms killed 18 and piled up damage exceeding 30 million, less than a year ago.

The return visit of the Southland's spring scourage came a few hours after the Weather Bureau lifted a tornado alert.

House Launches Debate On Flood Control Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House opens debate today on the Army civil functions appropriations bill, which carries funds for the country's flood control and navigation projects during the year beginning July 1.

As written by the House appropriations committee, the bill carries a total of $430,168,000, which is $34,176,000, or 7½ per cent, under President Eisenhower's budget recommendation.

Former Action Rescinded

School Board at Galion Orders Books Returned

GALION — The motion taken by the Galion Board of Education at its regular meeting March 8, ordering removal of all books in the fictional section of the junior and senior high school libraries was rescinded and immediate return of all books was authorized in a special session of the board Saturday night.

About 100 citizens attended the meeting in a classroom of Senior High School which was selected to accommodate the crowd. Board sessions usually are held in the office of Superintendent of Schools Marion E. Shank.

Under conditions of the motion, screening of all books in the school libraries is to be placed in the hands of Supt. Shank and his subordinates.

The motion of March 8 to remove the books had been passed by a 3-2 vote of the board. Considerable controversy took place over the proposal at that meeting. The order grew out of criticism of three books on senior high school library described as of low moral content and unfit for a high school student to read. The books were "Anthony Adverse" and "Toward the Morning," written by Hervey Allen, and "Native Son," by Richard Wright.

Since that Monday night action of the board, the city's main topic of conversation has been whether or not the board was right in ordering removal of all of the books. It also attracted the attention of the nation's press, radio and television

Weekend Auto Mishaps Leave 5 With Injuries

Ashley Youth Sent To City Hospital in Prospect St. Crash

Five persons were slightly injured in four of the six traffic accidents reported on city streets over the weekend by Marion police. The state highway patrol and sheriff's deputies reported no accidents on county roads.

Byrne Gibson, 33, of 206 E. Mark St. was arrested on a charge of reckless driving following a collision at E. Farming and Park St. at 8:24 p.m. Saturday in which two passengers in Gibson's car were hurt.

They were Richard Lantz, 20, of Columbus, who suffered a cut on his face, and Edward Galyk, 22, of 485 Patterson St., an injured right knee. Both were treated and released at Marion City Hospital.

Both Cars Damaged

The other car involved in the collision was driven by Robert Shoemaker, 22, of 380 E. George St. Police reported both cars were badly damaged.

In Municipal Court today, Gibson pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $15 and costs.

Three-year-old Jerry Dunn received a bump on his head when the car driven by his father, Robert A. Dunn, 28, of near Marion and another driven by B. N. Aldrich, 45, of 260 Latourette St. collided at Bennett St. and Fries Ave. at 2:05 p.m. Saturday.

H. W. Parker, 54, of Caledonia received a slight injury to his right leg when struck by a car at Union and W. Center Sts. at 12:05 p.m. Saturday. He told police he was walking south across W. Center St. when a car came through a red light and struck him. He said the driver stopped but would not wait for an accident report to be made out. Police are investigating.

Ashley Youth Hurt

Donald Gene Kelley, 19, of Ashley was sent to City Hospital with a cut over his eye and an injured left knee after his car crashed into a tree in front of 841 S. Prospect St. at 2:10 a.m. Sunday. Kelley later told police he was driving north on S. Prospect St. and must have fallen asleep. His car swerved across the street to the left side and struck the tree head-on.

Both other accidents were fender benders.

One, involving three cars, occurred at 10:08 a.m. Saturday in front of 241 N. Greenwood St. Police said a car driven by Keith A. Obenour, 25, of 482 N. Greenwood St. struck another driven by Junior H. Bays, 21, of near Marion in the rear. The impact pushed Bays' car forward into a third car driven by Herman Cull, 44, of 411 E. Mark St. Only slight damage resulted.

Willie E. Blanton, 26, of near Waldo escaped injury when his car collided with an Erie Railroad locomotive at Kenton Ave. and the Erie tracks at 5:57 a.m. Sunday. Blanton told police he did not see the train in time to avoid the collision.

Discussion Set On School Tax

Civic Groups To Meet With Board Tonight

Representatives of local civic, service and business groups will meet with the Marion City Board of Education tonight at 8 o'clock to discuss a proposed school levy.

About 20 groups will be represented at the meeting scheduled for the lunchroom at Harding High School. The meeting was called by the school board at its meeting last Monday.

Money from the levy will be used to increase teacher's pay and to build kindergartens for seven elementary schools. Tentative plans call for including the levy on the May primary ballot.

A meeting, similar to the one planned for tonight, was held in 1951 when a levy was proposed and eventually adopted by the voters.

read by board member, Russell Nichols Saturday night follows:

"IN VIEW of the apparent strong desire that the fiction books of the senior and junior high school libraries should be returned to the shelves, this meeting has been called for the purpose of taking action in this regard.

"It is our firm conviction that the placing of moral distractions in paths of our youth is not conducive to their best interests.

"We are fully cognizant of the fact that one of our major responsibilities to serve this community in a manner that will reflect its wishes. We believe that the action of the majority of the board in temporarily removing fiction books from the senior and junior high school libraries has resulted in directing the attention of the general public to the fact that certain books are undesirable reading material for students. If the action so taken has resulted in directing the attention of all interested in the welfare of our schools to this fact, only good can result from the action of the board's majority.

"It would appear, however, that the board should not accept permanently the responsibility of screening the books, and now that the matter has been called to the attention of the public, that the responsibility of screening should be now placed with the superintendent of schools and his subordinates to see that library reading material is wholesome and suitable for students to whom it is assigned."

SUPT. SHANK then asked that he be permitted to withdraw the three books which had been cited as objectionable, because they would be the object of curiosity by the children.

After the vote on the rescinding motion, Robert Ricksecker made the motion to direct the superintendent to look into the possibility of securing a school librarian. The motion was approved by the board.

Two other motions were passed by the board. Supt. Shank was authorized to proceed with plans for a golf program in the schools this spring and employment of Mrs. George Wisler as a substitute teacher was approved after a report of approval from the new teacher screening committee. The committee had been appointed last Monday night by Board President Grant West.

RECESS TO BE BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) said at the White House today the Senate will forego any prolonged Easter recess this year "because of our heavy work load."

4 Programs Scheduled by Concert Group

Quartet, Contralto, Pianist and Orchestra To Perform in Marion

Patrons of the Marion Concert Association's 1954-55 season will hear four programs by a varied and talented array of entertainment talent.

Selection of the program talent was made at a meeting Saturday night of the association's board and a representative of Community Concerts, Inc., Mrs. Edith LeRoy of New York City.

The season will open in November with the Song Masters, a quartet. Their program will include classics, sacred songs, spirituals, folk songs, ballads, sea chanteys, medleys and modern tunes.

In January the artist will be Carol Smith, contralto who made her New York debut recital in November 1951.

The March program will be by Herman Godes, pianist. A native of Latvia, he toured Western Europe and Scandinavia following his release from four years in a German concentration camp.

In April the attraction will be the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra under the direction of Eric Leinsdorf, classed among the top-notch symphony orchestras in the country.

Workers in the two-weeks campaign reported 759 adult and 147 student memberships enrolled. With a few reports to be turned in a membership audience of 1,000 is anticipated. Returns showed that approximately 25 per cent of the enrollment is made up of persons who had not purchased memberships in other years. The concerts will be held at Harding High School.

Dr. Neil Price, president of the association, presided for the meeting, held at Hotel Harding.

Wable Fights For New Trial

Convicted Turnpike Killer Plans Appeal

GREENSBURG, Pa. (AP)—John Wesley Wable, 24, convicted of slaying a sleeping truck driver on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, today began fighting for a new trial to escape the state's electric chair.

A. C. Scales, chief defense attorney, said he will appeal the jury verdict of first-degree murder with recommendation for death on grounds the prosecution erred in presenting testimony.

A jury of seven men and five women deliberated four hours Saturday before convicting the Ohiopyle, Pa., handyman of shooting to death Harry F. Pitts, 39, of Bowling Green, Va., as he slept in his parked truck.

Wable, closely guarded in his cell, was quoted by his attorney as saying yesterday:

"I don't understand how they could bring in that verdict. I didn't do anything."

spend all their earnings at bingo games.

She said she and her children are the ones who suffer and claimed "there are hundreds of homes in Marion in which the same thing is happening."

Costs $5 a Night

She wrote that it costs her husband and son more than $5 an evening to play bingo and indicated they play every night of the week, including Sunday.

Mayor Robinson said that without the name of the writer he could not make the necessary investigation of the claims contained in it and would so reply to Gov. Lausche. "It could just be a grudge letter," Mayor Robinson said.

Police Chief Thomas Coon said today he was not aware of any bingo games in operation nightly in the city and said he thought they had all been stopped.

Unlike a previous letter to Mayor Robinson concerning card playing in the city, Gov. Lausche in his letter today did not suggest action be taken.

Following the previous letter, Mayor Robinson called a special meeting of City Council and legislation was passed outlawing all card playing in public places in the city. This meeting was held on Saturday morning following arrival of the governor's letter Friday.

Mayor Robinson indicated he would not take such action regarding today's letter.

HELD AT CRAWFORD JAIL

BUCYRUS — Taken to Crawford County jail Friday was Donald Eugene Nicholson, 25, of near Bucyrus, for violation of parole from the Ohio State Penitentiary. He had been arrested by Bucyrus police in 1950 for stealing a truck from Kibler's Garage parking lot here. He is being held for the state parole officer.

NIXON ANSWERS STEVENSON. Vice President Richard Nixon poses at TV station in Washington before making a nation-wide telecast in answer to Adlai Stevenson's criticism of the Republican administration. Feud

Wednesday on a speaking trip which will keep him out of Washington until next week.

He said that if the subcommittee wants to discuss then his row with the Army "we will certainly do so."

The feud flared anew last week with publication of an official Army report to senators alleging that McCarthy and an aide on his Senate investigations subcommittee had put pressure on the Army to get special favors for Pvt. G. David Schine, a drafted former member of the subcommittee's staff. The report specifically accused the subcommittee's chief counsel Roy Cohn, who is a pal of Schine, of backing such demands with threats.

Accuses Stevens

"Blackmail," McCarthy retorted. He accused Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens and John G. Adams, Army general counsel, of trying to use the drafting of Schine as "a club" against further probing by the subcommittee into McCarthy's charges of Reds in the Army.

McCarthy made public a batch of "office memos" from his files, mostly signed by Cohn and Subcommittee Staff Chief Frank P. Carr, to back up the blackmail accusation which Stevens denounced as false and fantastic.

Among other things, the memos alleged that Stevens and Adams had sought to talk the committee into investigating other branches of the armed services instead of the Army.

Cohn Airs Charges

The Army officials denied this. Cohn said last night in a televised NBC interview that Adams had suggested a probe of sex deviations among personnel at an air base which Cohn did not name.

McCarthy has offered to repeat his charges against the Army under oath before his own subcommittee. Returning last night from a speaking trip to Wisconsin, he told reporters, "We will insist on our committee taking care of its own affairs."

That seemed to be pretty close to how front-rank Senate GOP leaders thought it should be handled, but Sen. Mundt (R-SD), next senior Republican member of the subcommittee, insisted "the public interest would be better served and the country would be better satisfied if the matter is turned over to a different committee.

McCarthy insisted publicly no one but his subcommittee would decide about hiring or firing its employes. He offered to relinquish the privilege of presiding temporarily to Mundt so he could be questioned under oath.

Taxes

plan to propose income levies be cut by raising individual exemptions $100 a year—from $600 to $700 for each dependent.

Martin said "grave concern is felt" that to go beyond the estimated seven billion dollars in tax reductions already made and contemplated would "endanger the dynamic, progressive program of the administration and delay balancing of the budget several years."

Majority Views

Asked whether he was expressing Eisenhower's views on that, Martin replied he felt sure he was reflecting the view of the majority of those present at today's White House session. Sen. Knowland of California, GOP leader of the Senate, agreed with him.

Sen. Bridges (R-NH), one of those summoned to the conference, said he has no doubt the President will come out against the Democratic proposal.

Other highly placed Republicans said they hoped the President would express such strong opposition that legislative leaders could argue to their colleagues: "A vote for increasing income tax exemptions is a vote against Eisenhower."

McCarthy

they knew he was a Communist, kept him from overseas duty, gave him a plush job in the United States, and an honorable discharge?"

Reporters asked about Vice President Nixon's Saturday night speech in which he said the Republican party insists that the fight against communism must be "fair and proper."

Declines Comment

McCarthy, who earlier had said he didn't know of any instance where there hasn't been fair play by the Senate committee, said, "I won't dignify any of the remarks by making a statement on them. The records speak for themselves.

"I definitely intend to vigorously pursue my probe of communism."

That same determination was voiced by McCarthy in his Saturday night speech before a Manitowoc Junior Chamber of Commerce gathering.

"As long as I am in the United States Senate, and I hope it is a long time," he said, "I don't intend to treat traitors like gentlemen. They are not gentlemen."

Making no reference to persons in politics, the Wisconsin senator, who has almost five years to go in his present term, said "Some people have told me that I shouldn't get so rough.

Difficult Job

"It's a difficult job to pick these slimy creatures without getting rough. If someone can tell me the gentlemen's way to dig out Communists, I invite them to 'come in, the water's fine'."

Prior to the talk, McCarthy said in an interview he wanted to testify under oath about his current row with Army Secretary Stevens.

He said he wanted Sen. Karl Mundt (R-SD), who ranks next to him on his investigations subcommittee, to assume the chairmanship temporarily while McCarthy presents "all the facts as a witness."

McCarthy has been fighting the Army over reports that the committee's counsel, Roy Cohn, sought special privileges for G. David Schine, former committee aide who was drafted into the Army.

Wilson

gest hydrogen blast they have yet attempted.

Wilson projected the air buildup ahead to July 1, 1957, when he said the Air Force will have 137 wings, plus Air National Guard and reserve units; the Navy 16 carrier air groups and 15 carrier antisubmarine warfare squadrons; the Marine Corps 3 air wings, with naval and Marine air reserves in a "high state of readiness." Turning to the ground forces, Wilson said:

"Army forces at the end of June will be organized into 17 divisions, 18 regiments and regimental combat teams, and 122 antiaircraft battalions, together with appropriate supporting elements. This is a reduction of three divisions from the high level achieved during the Korean War. It is the same number of regiments and regimental combat teams and is an increase of five in the anti-aircraft battalions."

Points to Buildup

Recognizing concern expressed over planned withdrawal of two divisions from Korea, Wilson said a Marine division had been moved there shortly before the armistice, along with personnel from Japan, and that South Korean forces had been built up. These forces, he added, are to be increased to 20 divisions, compared with 10 in the line and two in training at the end of 1952.

Wilson's remarks and other information indicate the Army plans to deactivate the 40th and 45th Divisions and return to the individual states two other National Guard divisions, possibly some now in Europe. Creation of an additional armored division has been announced. Thus the net reduction would be three divisions.

Latin-American Group Seeking Economic Help

16 Countries Request U.S. Aid as Caracas Conference Continues

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Economic issues rated top billing at the 10th Inter-American Conference today, with the United States on the defensive after carrying the ball against communism last week.

Sixteen of the 19 Latin-American nations at the conference supported the United States in warning international communism to stay clear of the Western Hemisphere. Now they want to talk about their economic problems—and they want the United States to listen carefully.

Seek Trade Pacts

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles and the rest of his delegation assured Latin Americans last week that the United States wants to cooperate on economic plans that are mutually advantageous. However, the Latin Americans are not likely to be satisfied with anything less than definite commitments that will eventually lead to a solution of their economic problems.

They feel that the United States, as the major market for their raw materials and natural products, must agree to solutions for basic economic problems if any headway is to be made in the battle to better living standards.

Agreeing on an economic policy rather than answers to specific problems seems to be the goal of the Latin-American delegates at this time. The chore of putting the policy into effect will be undertaken at a conference of finance ministers and ministers of economy to be held later this year at either Washington or Rio de Janeiro.

Principal Grievances

Latin America's principal grievance is that it is not getting enough for its raw materials, in relation to what it has to pay for finished goods imported from the United States.

The southern republics also want more stability in the price situation. They complain also that they lack sufficient credit for financing the economic development of their countries.

The United States is trying to convince her neighbors they should depend largely on their own initiative plus private capital from abroad. The Latins have been told the United States owes its development to private capital, and that U. S. investors would be willing to send cash into Latin America provided the Latin Americans make the venture attractive.

Indochina

to decimate the ranks of the best rebel divisions and perhaps thus break the back of the Vietminh forces.

Most Savage Fighting

The fighting was described as the most savage yet in the seven-year-old Indochina war.

The French have staked their hold in the hilly Thai country on Dien Bien Phu since last autumn, when they seized the plain and abandoned other towns in the northwest. U. S.-supplied war equipment was flown in from Hanoi, 175 miles to the east, to build a formidable defense system—a ring of bunkers, trenches and gun emplacements around an airfield.

The Vietminh encircled the fortress, entrenching from 36,000 to 46,000 troops in the surrounding hills. Making up this force were the four best trained and equipped of the Vietminh's eight regular divisions. More than 100,000 coolies packed in supplies—mostly from Communist China—over mountain trails.

Realistic View

By George Sokolsky

The 1954 congressional campaign is now in the stage where each party is poised for battle. The Democrats are making a better showing than the Republicans. They are more competently organized; they have a clearer perspective on their goals; they have avoided exposing their internal quarrels to the public view.

SOKOLSKY

The Republicans are split on issues, on leadership, on personalities. The effort to silence Joe McCarthy involves not only a public question but a resentment at his hogging the stage, getting favorable and unfavorable attention, capturing radio and television time and giving the impression that he is the Republican party.

Some of the Republican senators who must run next November for re-election feel that McCarthy has so overshadowed them that he has hurt their chances of re-election without his assistance, and they prefer not to be dependent upon him.

THE DEMOCRATS naturally and correctly are taking advantage of this situation which can win the election for them in November. As it is now, they need do nothing but let the Republicans beat out each other's brains.

The Democratic solidification can only hold as long as it appears that the Republicans are making it easy for the Democrats to win the congressional election of 1954.

After that, the quarel on issues between the ADA and the conservative Democrats will be renewed, but the essential difference between the Republicans and the Democrats is that the latter manage to keep personalities out of the fight.

Sen. George and Sen. Humphrey disagree, but they do not attack each other as Sen. Flanders attacked Sen. McCarthy. Such quarrels among the Democrats are kept from the public view, even if temporarily.

During the first year of the Eisenhower administration, the Democrats behaved cooperatively and nicely because they could not tell how far the Republicans would go into the investigations of the past two administrations, particularly as regards foreign relations, corruption, espionage, and subversion.

THE REPUBLICANS started with great enthusiasm, but most of the investigations bogged down on these fundamental questions, all except the McCarthy and Jenner committees. Then Jenner lost his counsel, Robert Morris, who went to New York to be a judge and the committee's work slowed down, if for no other reason than that the new counsel is unfamiliar with the work and needs time.

Then McCarthy got into a wrangle with Secretary of the Army Stevens and everybody's shins were kicked in what turned out to be a Kilkenny.

The Democrats are having a wonderful time watching this performance and, when they can, they throw a little red pepper into the Republicans' eyes just to keep everybody mad.

It all seems good, clean fun while the country is in peril of actual defeat by the Soviet Universal State without a fighting war.

If the Democrats win the Congress in 1954, they will, of course, take over the committees. Sen. Pat McCarran would take the chairmanship of both the Judiciary committee, which is now presided over by Sen. William Langer, and the Committee on Internal Security, now called the Jenner committee. Pat McCarran would be likely to do all the kind of investigating that both Jenner and McCarthy have been doing.

McCARRAN WOULD be vigorous and there would be no easing up in the fight on Communists. Senator John McClellan would be doing the work that is now being done by McCarthy. On the sidelines, McCarthy would be conducting a running fight on the Communists and the Democrats.

In a word, the position of the moderates, as President Eisenhower likes to call the middle-of-the-roaders, will not be improved. Senator Stuart Symington, who may be the Democratic candidate for the presidency, would undoubtedly get into the act, just to show that the Democrats are as anti-Communist as the Republicans.

Only President Eisenhower can suffer from a Democratic victory because he would be without even as much support in Congress as he has now. He would learn that it is impossible to conduct this government on a bipartisan basis and that those Democrats who are friendly to him now will be working for their own party and for his defeat in 1956.

This is the realistic picture today and unless the Republicans can kiss and make up in the next month or two, it will be a sad day for them when the next Congress meets.

COLLISION BRINGS $26,023 SUIT. The sidewalk collision of their bicycle and tricycle is discussed in court at Los Angeles, Calif., as Jack Chase (right), 8, and his parents brought suit for $26,023 against Bobby Ritter (left), 11. The Chases contend that Bobby was operating his bike in a "careless and reckless" manner when it struck Jack on his trike and broke his leg. The collision was on the sidewalk in front of their homes. The principals said it is a friendly suit.

Switch in Time

By Victor Riesel

PITTSBURGH — Although unpublicized, his travels would make Eleanor Roosevelt seem like a shut-in. Yet this chap I'm about to discuss is weaving a network of headquarters across the country which will save the nation considerable heartaches and perhaps even rioting and some bloodshed.

RIESEL

Leo Perlis by name, director of the CIO's Community Services Committee by occupation, he left town before I got in. He was speeding on his way, setting up information centers to which the jobless in the big industrial cities can come for specific assistance on how and where to raise rent money and doctors' payments, how to secure relief, discover a new job or get domestic relations counseling as lay-offs and irritations replace regular pay envelopes.

Leo Perlis is a man in a hurry. He wants to get to the distressed areas before the "agitation-propagandists" arrive.

He and his colleagues want no repetition of the bloody Thirties, when extremist elements organized the unemployed, march on state capitals and manacled themselves to lamp posts and to pipes in washrooms.

WHEN I DID get Perlis by phone, he put it this way:

"We will reject any attempt to use the sudden lack of funds and the misery of the newly unemployed for any ulterior purposes.

"We don't want any modern day 'Workers Alliances' or 'Unemployed Councils' around. We will do the job in cooperation with community and state agencies to meet the immediate needs of the unemployed.

"We are organizing for two reasons. First, and basically, to help the unemployed, but to provide guidance for working members of CIO also.

Very definitely we don't want a repetition of the Thirties when many of the Communist groups used misery as a political weapon. We won't permit them, or any other group, to ride on the backs of the unemployed."

Because the heaviest concentration of jobless exists in Detroit—with close to 19,000 out of work in the auto capital, Perlis and his colleagues started there first.

They have already set up 23 CIO Community Services Information Centers in that city, which now crawls with subversive agents under orders to invade the CIO Auto Union and attempt to organize wild demonstrations of unemployed workers.

THE NEXT CITY reached was South Bend, Ind., where lay-offs and a work holiday at Studebaker, and additional displacements in other plants, have put the city into Group 4, the distressed area category. The area is so hard hit that local officials report a 50 per cent jump last month in applications for public assistance.

Next in line on Perlis' list are Milwaukee, Wis., and New Bedford, Mass. His aides in Chicago, disturbed by rising unemployment, are seriously considering the establishment of a center there.

Perlis and his people are conferring all over the country in an effort to set up shop in each of the nation's 58 distressed Group 4 sectors.

Perlis makes a point of the fact that the information centers are referral headquarters too. The object is to guide the jobless worker to the proper local, state or federal agency available for help — and not to permit the difficulty of the moment to turn the unemployed against the country.

CIO is not alone in this work. In Detroit, the Ford Company, whose River Rouge plant is infested with methodical conspirators, is hard at work attempting to place in its other Detroit plants as many as possible of the men it is forced to lay off.

THE COMPANY has created a Ford Availability List. On it are the names and skills of the new jobless so they can be placed first wherever openings occur.

However, there is hope that the jobless will diminish. Current automobile production is better than the White House expected — at this stage.

Steel company officials here, though wary of being quoted directly, believe that the steel slump will end this month.

They say they've about reached the end of their stockpiles and have heavy orders for April and May. Word from Detroit is that the auto industry will be buying anywhere from 10 to 40 per cent more steel this spring than they did in February.

Steel people here, whom I questioned on the significance of the industry's going under 70 per cent of capacity, say simply that they are still turning the metal out at the rate of 90 million tons a year, which is enormous. At this rate the industry can still keep one million steelworkers employed.

It's particularly comforting to know that Leo Perlis left this city —a sensitive indicator of the nation's prosperity — without having to set up one of his special aid-to-the-jobless centers here.

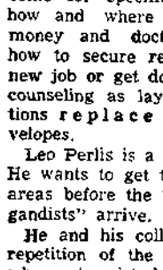
Baby on Cruise

By Hal Boyle

ABOARD THE MAURETANIA (AP)—A baby girl is almost as rare on a pleasure cruise as a baby elephant.

When my wife booked passage for three on an 18-day voyage to the West Indies and South America, the Cunard Line agents were perturbed to learn that the third member of the family was our 8 - months - old daughter, Tracy.



HAL BOYLE

"We are well set up to care for infants on our transatlantic voyages," they said. 'But frankly, we don't encourage the taking of infants on a long tropical pleasure cruise, and it is rather ... um ... um ... unusual to say the least."

—:—

THIS UPSET US. My wife, Frances, had looked forward to this cruise for years—as a kind of a late honeymoon to take the place of the one we couldn't afford when we were first married. But Tracy had come as a late surprise in our lives, too, and we would have turned our backs on 18 days in paradise if it meant leaving her behind.

"Why, they forget so quickly at that age," said Frances, "Tracy probably wouldn't know us when we returned, if we went on the cruise without her, and that would break my heart."

When we told the ship line officials we either had to sail as a family trinity or forget my wife's long dream of a cruise, they relented. They said Tracy could come along if she agreed not to eat her baby-sized life preserver or try to enter any gin rummy tournaments in the lounge.

Tracy embarked with the fanfare of a movie queen, minus the dark glasses. There were seven native diaper bearers in her entourage.

CHILDREN don't get seasick until the age of 2, so Tracy, who can't walk and refuses to crawl, was one of the first passengers to get her sea legs. She fell asleep on her stomach while friends were telling her "bon voyage."

That night at a gathering to meet the ship officers, the chief steward said:

"Did you notice we were several minutes late in sailing this morning? Do you know why? We were held up waiting for a case of baby food for your daughter to get aboard."

I suppose all proud parents are told this as a joke—that the ship's departure was delayed to get their baby's food aboard—but when I tell Tracy about this some years from now I'm going to treat it as gospel truth.

"When you were 8 months old you kept a 35,000-ton liner and 1,300 people waiting," I'll tell her. "Now don't you think it's about time to learn to be prompt?

BABIES HATE a change of routine as much as grownups do. They're really very conservative. But Tracy adjusted to shipboard life within a day. We were afraid to take her ashore at any of the ports, but she didn't mind. She has had a high time in her crib or on deck flirting with Barnes and learning to play patty-cake with the young stewardess, Miss Heather Butler, who has a heart for children.

Tracy, after patty-caking her hands nearly raw, has learned to speak with a British accent. Her first word was "coo!," which, as everybody knows, is a Cockney expression of wonder or surprise.

Everything brings a "coo!" from her—flapping gulls, a sudden breeze, the foam in the ship's wake, or the passengers who stop to chat with her. They have been wonderful to her, for she is the only baby between here and land.

"Doesn't she look exactly like her father!" exclaimed one of two women who passed us on deck. My pride-expanded chest collapsed when, as they strolled on, the wind blew back the remark of the second woman—"But she'll probably outgrow it."

ANOTHER woman stopped many times to play with Tracy. Once she turned away suddenly with wet eyes. Later I learned she had lost a daughter of her own, and I felt how often in this world our personal happiness is but a small island washed by the seas of others' sadness.

Tracy will end this unremembered first voyage of her life with at least two distinctions. Capt. A. B. Fasting had her as one of his guests at a party in his cabin, and said she was the only one who showed up barefoot.

As for the other distinction, Tracy sailed with only four teeth but will end the cruise with five.

No other passenger can make this claim.

School Debaters To Strive for New Brush Trophy

Silver Cup Will Be Given At State Tournament March 19-20

Possession of a new Louis H. Brush Memorial Trophy will be the aim of high school debaters from all over Ohio when they compete in state finals Friday and Saturday, March 19 and 20, at Ohio State University in Columbus.

The trophy is awarded annually at the state meet by Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., as a memorial award honoring the late Louis H. Brush of Salem, one of the founders of the Brush-Moore newspaper organization.

THE STAB is owned and operated by Brush - Moore Newspapers, which has its headquarters in Canton. The group's other Ohio papers are located in Canton, Portsmouth, East Liverpool, Steubenville and Salem. Radio stations WHBC and WHBC - FM in Canton and WPAY and WPAY-FM in Portsmouth also are owned and operated by Brush-Moore.

The first time the trophy was offered in 1949 it was won by Ravenna High School. In succeeding years winners have been Dayton Oakwood High School in 1950, Columbus North High School in 1951 and Wooster High School in 1952 and 1953. Because Wooster won the Class A debate award twice, the school has gained permanent possession of the original trophy.

A NEW TROPHY has been made ready for presentation to the top debate team this year. Slightly different permanent possession rules have been put into effect with the new trophy, in that it now will go to the school which takes first place three times instead of twice. The victories need not be successive.

Mr. Brush was a life resident of Ohio and began newspaper work immediately after graduation from Mt. Union College at the turn of the century. He served many years as president of Brush-Moore and at the time of his death in June, 1948, was chairman of the board.

Commission Accredits Union County Hospital

The Union County Memorial Hospital at Marysville has been included on the list of provisionally accredited hospitals as set up by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

It is one of 498 in the nation to which the commission gave provisional accreditation. Such accreditation means that the hospital fell just short of the required standards of the commission and will be re-surveyed within one year to determine if deficiencies shown in the original survey have been corrected.

Dig Up Cache of Beer

Thief Swipes Tax Form

DETROIT (AP)—Mrs. Marian Carballido is going to have to hurry to get her tax return in on time.

A thief snatched her purse last night. It contained $6 and tax forms she had planned to file in person this morning.

It may be true that no two snowflakes are the same, but they all feel identical when dumped down the back of the neck.

Both Parties Backed Tax Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP)—Oh, for the good old days when there was no income tax. Or at worst it was nothing much to sneeze at.

The good old days are pre-1913, for that's the year the Constitution acquired the 16th Amendment:

"The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived . . ."

This supreme law of the land is the grand-daddy of your agonized figuring today, if you haven't filed already, to meet the midnight deadline with the revenue collector.

And you can be politically impartial with your hard feelings. The amendment was officially proposed in 1909 by President Taft, Republican. It was first put into practice four years later by President Wilson, Democrat.

There were some temporary try-outs of nationwide income levies before that. During Civil War days Congress enacted several versions of an income tax. The toughest one pushed the top rate to 10 per cent.

The Civil War tax was highly regarded from the revenue standpoint, but (surprise) not by the citizenry. It went off the books soon after the war.

Then, after much clamor about an income tax being fairer than other types, Congress tried again in 1894. The rate: 2 per cent.

The experiment was short lived. The Supreme Court struck down the law the following year as unconstitutional. That's why the 16th Amendment was adopted.

On March 1, 1914, the first deadline under the permanent law, and for some years thereafter, the taxpayer took much less of a beating than he does in this atomic and expensive age.

His first bill was 1 per cent up to $20,000, 2 per cent for $20,000-$50,000, and so forth up to a 7 per cent peak on incomes of a half million dollars or more. He got a personal exemption of $3,000, or $4,000 if he was living with his spouse.

Tax scales went up and down in later years, mostly up, especially in wartime.

So the form you filled out for today, covering 1953, puts the bottom rate at 22 per cent. For the $200,000 bracket and up it's 92 per cent. Exemptions are down to $600.

Now, if it were the year 1912 . . .

Pike Commission Unveils Plans for 16 Servicing Areas

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Turnpike Commission today unveiled its plan for a typical service area on the east-west toll road now under construction across northern Ohio.

The layout, which will be used at each of 16 points along the 241-mile superhighway, includes auto servicing facilities, restaurant, snack bar, playground, picnic area and parking areas for autos and trucks.

To provide room for cars and trucks to slow down, there will be a 1,200 - foot - long "deceleration lane" entering the area. An "acceleration lane" of the same length is provided at the other side.

Parking areas will accommodate 161 passenger cars and 31 trucks.

Fire Levels Plain City Grocery, Owner Hurt

PLAIN CITY, Ohio (AP)—George Elias, local grocer, was hospitalized today after being overcome by smoke from a fire which destroyed his combined grocery and residence.

The fire routed 11 members of the Elias family and caused damage estimated at $20,000. Oil tanks exploded and sent sparks flying over part of the town.

Vice Squad Sneaks Up On Floating Dice Game

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—It was one of those "floating" dice games—known to the cops but harder to stop than the income tax collector.

So, yesterday, Police Inspector Frank Ahern and his vice squad borrowed a pie delivery truck. They drove to the vacant lot where the dice were in action and piled out of the pie wagon before the game's lookouts could holler "such crust."

Seventeen men were arrested and $1,100 seized.

STRESS FUNDAMENTALS

CLEVELAND (AP)—At the dedication of the new five million dollar Parma Senior High School yesterday, Dr. John C. Baker, president of Ohio University, declared "we must bear down on the fundamentals of education at both the secondary and college levels."

Six Calls Answered

Fire Burns Out Interior Of Marion Trailer Home

A fire blamed on an overheated stove caused some $700 damage to the house trailer home of Donald Reese at the rear of 741 N. Main St. Sunday afternoon.

Central and Mark St. station firemen who answered the alarm at 4:56 p.m. Sunday said the interior siding was first to catch fire from the stove. The blaze then spread and gutted the inside of the house trailer.

—:—

IT WAS ONE OF six fire calls answered over the weekend by city firemen. Four were the result of runaway bonfires and brought forth a warning from Fire Chief Owen A. Sifritt.

He noted that Marion has a fire prevention code as a part of the laws of the city. One section of this law specifies that no one shall kindle or maintain any bonfire or rubbish fire on any public street, alley, road or other public place without a permit or other proper authorization.

The law states further that no rubbish or bonfire may be started or maintained on private land unless it is at least 50 feet from any structure and adequate provision is made to prevent it from spreading to within 50 feet of any structure. If rubbish is to be burned in a waste burner, the burner must be of an approved type with a closed top and must be located at least 15 feet from any structure, Chief Sifritt said.

MAINTAINING these minimum distances is particularly necessary at this time of year when strong winds may quickly fan a grass fire toward a building and set it afire, he said.

The four grass fires to which firemen were called all started from bonfires spread by strong winds, he said. At 5:45 p.m. Saturday, one such blaze started in a field near the Baker Airport on the Likens Chapel Rd., another broke out at 2:55 p.m. Saturday in a field north of E. Fairground St., and a third was in a field and woods on the Walter Martin farm on Route 4 north of the city at 11:45 a.m. Saturday. All these were answered by Mark St. station firemen using the township-owned fire truck while the fourth, in a field owned by the Marion Power Shovel Co. at the rear of 912 Oak Grove Ave., was answered by firemen from the W. Center St. station at 1:39 p.m. Saturday. There was no loss reported in any of them.

Only other alarm answered over the weekend was to Park and Farming Sts. Sunday afternoon to wash gasoline off the street following an automobile collision.

Indiana Fire Wipes Out Family of Four

KOKOMO, Ind. (AP) — A family of four perished in a blazing apartment here late last night—inches from a window and safety.

The dead were Paul Imlay, 27, a filling station operator; his wife Betty, 24; and two children, Cindy, 4, and William, about 1.

Imlay apparently awoke and smelled smoke in their second-floor garage apartment. Rushing outside, he called to neighbors for help and raced back inside.

Fire Chief Francis X. Mannion of Kokomo said he apparently succeeded in getting the wife and two children out of bed but collapsed a few feet from the window through which they could have jumped to safety.

Mrs. Imlay was lying across the two children, her outflung arms just inches from the blackened window, Mannion said.

Orthodontists in Reunion

Dr. H. J. Bohrman of 201 Elm St., a Marion orthodontist, is attending a three-day meeting of the Ohio State University orthodontic reunion which opened today in Columbus. It will continue through Wednesday.

Principal speaker today was to be Dr. T. M. Graber, head of the department of orthodontics at Northwestern University. Dr. Bohrman will conduct a clinic on orthodontic appliance auxiliaries at the Tuesday session. Dr. Bohrman's office is at 197 W. Center St.

MGR. DEAN McFARLAND
Pastor of Church in Dayton

Former Marionite Named Monsignor By Catholic Church

The title of right reverend monsignor has been conferred on a former Marion resident, Father Joseph Dean McFarland, pastor of Holy Angels Catholic Church in Dayton. The announcement was made by Archbishop Karl J. Alter of Cincinnati following a meeting last week of the diocesan consultors.

A native of Marion, Monsignor McFarland is the son of Mrs. T. J. McFarland of 253 E. George St. and the late Mr. McFarland, who for many years served as chief of the Marion Fire Department.

He was graduated from St. Mary Parochial High School and completed his studies for the priesthood in Rome where he was ordained in 1924. He returned to Cincinnati to serve as pastor of San Antonio di Padova Church and as chaplain of the Santa Maria Institute. A year later he joined the faculty of St. Gregory's Seminary.

Appointed spiritual director of Mount St. Mary Seminary in 1934, three years later he began a 12-year pastorate at St. Paul's Church in Cincinnati. In 1949 he was transferred to Holy Angels Catholic Church in Dayton. He was named to the board of diocesan consultors two months ago.

The date for the investitute ceremonies will be announced later.

INJURED NEAR ASHLEY

ASHLEY — Mrs. Ote LeMaster of the Oxford-Joint County Line Rd., southeast of Ashley, suffered fracture of vertebrae when she fell about 10 feet from the haymow Saturday morning. She said she was looking for eggs when she slipped through an opening in the floor of the mow. She was taken to Jane Case Hospital in Delaware.

Speech on McCarthy Over WLW Canceled

CINCINNATI (AP)—A speech by Roger N. Baldwin of the American Civil Liberties Union on Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) will not be carried on radio station WLW as scheduled because of fear the senator might ask for time to reply.

Dr. Dorothy Ellin Flax, executive director of the International Forum, promoter of the broadcast, said last night the broadcast was canceled. She said McCarthy might have demanded "equal time on the air" if the talk were aired.

Baldwin, widely known in the field of civil liberties, will deliver the speech, "McCarthy—Patriot or Dictator," at a dinner meeting at the University of Cincinnati YMCA.

Party Leaders Hear Burke in Lorain

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's Democratic senator, Thomas A. Burke, told a party meeting here yesterday some influential Republicans in Washington were seeking to divide the nation, when it most needs unity.

An informal meeting of city and Lorain County Democratic leaders heard the former Cleveland mayor's talk.

The unemployment problem is being sharply watched, said Sen. Burke. He predicted rising business and an upturn in employment, but said if the latter did not develop, the Eisenhower administration and both houses of Congress would act quickly.

"Machines certainly help a man turn out more work"

"Look, Joe, I'm making these lamps in my spare time"

"Swell job, Jun. But these tools must have cost you plenty"

"Yes, I've put over $800 into them, but soon my hobby will be paying me a good profit."

"I guess those machines we have at the plant cost a lot of money, too."

"Right. I've read that it costs a manufacturer about $12,000 per worker for tools and equipment to provide jobs like ours."

"That's quite an investment, isn't it?"

"You bet it is! But these modern machines help us turn out our product at less cost per piece – that means our company can sell at lower prices and more people can buy from us."

"And when the company does more business and makes a profit, our jobs are more secure, aren't they?"

"Right again, Joe. It takes sales and profits to provide new machinery, higher wages for us, and more jobs for other people. The better we produce the more all of us benefit—and modern machinery helps us to increase our output."

Ten Questions Answered by Veteran AP Newsman After 12 Years in Russia

(Editor's Note—If you could question an American who has lived 12 years in the Soviet Union, what would you ask him about Russia? Chances are you'd ask some or all of the 10 questions Eddy Gilmore, former Associated Press correspondent in Moscow, was asked most frequently on a recent U. S. lecture tour. Here are the 10 questions and Gilmore's answers.)

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Correspondent

You don't have to tell the American people about communism. They know.

This was the biggest discovery I made during a lecture tour that took me from the sugar-white sands of the Gulf of Mexico (I wasn't exactly talking on the sands, but in cities close by them) to the lovely wooded hills of Seattle.

However, although the American people recognize the true face of Soviet communism for what it is—they still ask you an awful lot of questions about it.

The very questions they put to you reveal how much they really know about the subject. Very, very few of the questions are pointless or silly.

I ALWAYS emphasize I'm no Russian expert. There's no such thing But, by living and working in Russia for nearly 12 years, knowing several hundred Soviet citizens and traveling over the country, you can't help seeing and hearing a lot of things.

I spoke to all sorts of audiences on this tour. A big Protestant church group in Detroit. The National Council of Jewish Women in Cleveland. To the prettiest group of young women I ever saw under one roof at Stephens College in Missouri. To a convention of collegiate editors in Chicago. To black tie dinners in St Louis and Memphis. To a men's club in St. Joseph, Mich. To the largest woman's club in the world in California. To conventions of America's top industrialists and manufacturers in New York. And to dozens of others.

Their questions were nearly always the same.

THESE WERE the 10 questions most frequently asked and my answers·

Q How does the Moscow press treat Sen. McCarthy?

A. The Moscow press almost ignores the senator. Every once in a while they give him three or four paragraphs and denounce him generally as the "leading American Fascist" No matter what you may think of the senator, he is a tricky subject for the propaganda machine of the Central Committee of the Communist party. In order for the Soviet press to discuss McCarthy the papers must at least mention the word subversives, and that there are Americans who have been used by Moscow, and others suspected of being used by Moscow, to spy, or aid the Soviet Union. This doesn't fit in with the party line, which says Russia "never interferes in the internal affairs of any foreign country."

Q. Can you hear the Voice of America in Moscow?

A. You can hear the English language broadcasts of the Voice in Moscow. You cannot hear the Russian language broadcasts. They are drowned by a torrent of jamming from several hundred (I've seen them) jamming stations in and around the Soviet capital. But—I lived in a Russian village 25 miles from Moscow for four summers and I could hear the Voice of America's Russian language broadcasts almost around the clock. Sometimes they were as loud as Moscow radio. Also, people from the State Department who move about the country with portable radios told me you can hear the broadcasts in many parts of the nation. I do not know how effective these broadcasts are and I know no way of determining this.

I do remember a Russian man saying to me· "Gospodin Gilmore (Gospodin is mister) I was listening to the Voice of America last night and the announcer told a great lie. He said the Soviet government had 10 million people in concentration camps. Now, gospodin, that's just not right. If the announcer had said that our government had 15 million people in concentration camps I would have believed him, but not when he said just 10 million!"

Q. Is religion free in Russia, and is there freedom of worship?

A. During the war Stalin opened a number of churches in the Soviet Union. I would say there are about 50 or 60 operating in Moscow and I've seen them in other cities and villages There is one so-called Baptist church, one so-called synagogue and one so-called Catholic church in Moscow, but the great majority are Russian Orthodox churches They are all well attended and it is truly stimulating to visit them at Easter time and on the Russian Orthodox Christmas Eve and on any of the other church holidays.

They are packed as tight as caviar in a can. The churches operate under a bureau which comes under the Council of Ministers. I don't mean religious ministers, but political ones.' We always called this the Commissariat of God and you can imagine how much freedom the churchmen have under such a set up. The Communists discovered that God wouldn't stay underground—even in their country—so they opened the churches and determined to control them.

Q Have things really changed since Stalin died and Malenkov took over?

A. Not really. There's a new look, but I'm afraid all the old ambitions of world communism are still there. The new group has done a few things which have cost them very little, if anything, to make it appear that everything has changed.

Q. What do the Russian people think of the United States and the American people?

A. I suppose I must have known 400 Soviet citizens by name and never recall hearing one of the say anything unkind about us. I remember a woman in a village saying to me, "Gospodin Gilmore, during the last war your country sent us many things and we appreciate them. You sent us food I know. My three children ate it and I ate it, but if we have a war with you, and God forbid, (she crossed herself), you won't be sending us food, you'll be dropping bombs on us.

"I'm afraid we'll all die"

Q Do you think we are going to have a war anytime soon with Russia?

A. No. The Soviets don't start wars they are not sure they can win. I saw many things to convince me they believe beating us would be very difficult. I don't advocate throwing away a single gun, for if there is anything those people respect it's strength. And if there is anything they despise it's weakness.

Q. Were the Russian people sorry to see Stalin die?

A. I watched them file by his body by the thousands and I saw a few of them crying, but the vast majority seemed to me to have come down there out of curiosity—and to make sure he was dead

Q. Do you believe there is any chance of settling our differences with Russia around a conference table?

A. Very little right now. If there is one single thing the top Communists really believe about us, it's that we are going to have a terrible depression. One that will make the last one look like a wave of prosperity. They think it's coming and that when it does we'll withdraw our forces and influences from all over the world—and then they'll move in. And after that it'll only be a question of time before we collapse at home. As long as they fell this way why expect them to compromise?

Q Do the Russians have the atomic and the hydrogen bomb?

A. I have no real way of telling, but if you asked me what I think, I'd say I believe they have an atomic bomb, but I'd be greatly surprised if they have a droppable hydrogen bomb.

Q. Why was Beria eliminated?

A. Beria was executed in a raw and only slightly disguised struggle for power. If Malenkov hadn't gotten Beria, then Beria would have gotten Malenkov. Ignore any of the official reasons advanced for his arrest. It was a wolf fight One had to go. Just as simple as that.

"I'SE HIT BY TRAIN". This is how Arthur Edwards, 2, of Manchester, Conn, explained his plight to his mother. She found him with his face covered with blood beside the railroad track in front of the family home, but she was "so upset" she didn't report it to police until the following day. He received only minor injuries

Americans are in the midst of a great renewal of religious interest

SINCE 1940, membership in religious congregations has increased by 27 million—over twice the rate of our population growth.

During this period, thousands of places of worship have been built. There's been an increase of 40,000 active clergymen.

More Bibles were published between 1940 and 1950 than in the previous 40 years. The vast audiences of religious radio and television programs also reflect our growing spiritual interests.

Although we Americans have made great gains in our material possessions, it is the renewal of spiritual interest that adds meaning and significance to these material gains.

The stability of our families and homes, as well as the progress of the nation, have their roots in moral and spiritual values. We in America have always enjoyed freedom of worship and it is of tremendous importance that we are more actively using this opportunity.

Barons Finish Season With Split in Weekend Action

Action Scheduled Tuesday In Series for Turner Cup

The Marion Barons broke even in a pair of weekend engagements which wound up regular season play in the International Hockey League. Saturday night at Grand Rapids, the Barons dropped a hard-fought 6-5 decision in an overtime battle and Sunday won their season finale at the Coliseum 3-2 from Johnstown's Jets.

Neither the Grand Rapids loss nor the Johnstown victory had any bearing on the Barons' second - place finish. They had clinched the runner-up spot Friday night with an easy 13-4 win over Louisville.

In Marion Wednesday

Action in the Turner Cup playoffs will get under way Tuesday night at the Cincinnati Gardens with the Barons meeting the defending league champs. The best of seven series moves to the Coliseum for the second game Wednesday with the fourth game slated here Saturday night. The third game will be played Thursday at Cincinnati. Cincinnati also has the fifth and seventh games if they are needed with the sixth scheduled on the Baron ice.

In the Sunday game, played before 1,944, the Barons sealed the verdict with a two-goal spurt in a 48-second period in the final stanza. The Jets had led up to that point by a 2-1 margin.

Both teams notched single goals in the opening period with the Barons scoring first. Tony Poeta opened the show after four minutes and 13 seconds had elapsed. Ken Schultz intercepted a pass in the Jets' attacking zone and passed to Poeta. The speedy right winger eluded two Jet defenders and blasted the score past Goalie Don Simmons. The assist by Schultz was his 100th point of the campaign. He was the first IHL player to hit that total.

Ron Castelane and Larry Winder teamed up to tie the score at the 14:36 mark. Castelane took a pass from Winder on one side of the net and blasted away. Lou Crowdis, Baron goalie, knocked the puck up and away but it hit him on the back and bounced into the net.

Both teams were shut out during the second period. Crowdis knocked away 11 shots by Johnstown while Simmons kicked out eight Baron scoring attempts.

Arnie Schmautz moved the visitors ahead 2-1 after two minutes and 15 seconds had been played in the final period. Frazier Kilpatrick pulled Crowdis to one side of the net and Schmautz batted in the score from the opposite side.

Ted Lebioda's tying goal was set up when Schultz had a hard shot knocked out by Simmons. Hal Jones grabbed the rebound but it also was knocked away. Lebioda fired that rebound from the point and it sailed by Simmons about knee high. The score came after 14:06 of play. Wimpy Jones scored the winning goal at the 14:54 mark. Gordon Vejprava, who finished as the Barons' top goal getter, carried the puck into Jet territory but his shot was blocked. Dutch Delmonte picked up the rebound and Jones scored on his pass.

Only 14 minutes in penalty time was chalked up by the officials, Freddie Blackburn and Ron Hudson. Crowdis and Simmons each ended with 24 saves.

Prior to the game, Leland Watson, Coliseum custodian, and Miss Helen Loyer were married in a ceremony performed on the rink ice. The ceremony was read by Rev. William S. Kissell, pastor of the St. Joseph Evangelical and Reformed Church at Waldo.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Hemmerling were best man and matron of honor. Hemmerling serves as general manager for the Marion hockey club. Miss Loyer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Loyer of near Marion. Mr. Watson is the son of Mrs. Louisa Watson of 487 Park St.

Included in the fans at yesterday's game were Mr. and Mrs. Tony Vejprava of Blairmore in Alberta, Canada. They had made the trip to Marion to see their son, Gordie, in action.

The Barons were 6-5 overtime victims Saturday night of the ired Grand Rapids Rockets, who were eliminated from the playoffs the previous night.

5,863 Watch

Although the Grand Rapids club was formally eliminated from the playoffs Friday, a capacity crowd of 5,863 persons watched the Rockets overcome a two-goal deficit in the third period.

It was the final 1953-54 hockey season match for the Grand Rapids club. The Barons saw the Rockets, playing Rock 'em hockey to the chant of the huge crowd, strike for two quick goals in the overtime period.

The score was 4-4 going into the extra 10-minute session. Defenseman Ed Montigny drilled a 30-footer after taking a pass from Center George Hayes from behind the Marion nets at 2:10 of the overtime.

Grand Rapids' Roger Maisonneauve scored a hat trick by slapping a short rebounder past Marion's net-minder Lou Crowdis at 6:53 of the overtime for the winning goal.

Vejprava bounced in his second goal of the match at 8:24 of the overtime, but it was too late.

Seventeen penalties were called, seven in the opening period. Grand

Hodge, Speedy Forwards Give Mohawks Edge

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Mohawks, champions of the International Hockey League for the second straight year, start their campaign for playoff honors in the first of a seven-game series with Marion tomorrow night.

The regular season ended yesterday, with Troy climbing to fifth place by edging Milwaukee 7-6 and with the potent Marion skaters nipping Johnstown 3-2.

The series between the No. 1 and No. 2 teams is one of five in the IHL playoff system.

Third-place Johnstown, a transfer from the Eastern League, will battle sixth-place Fort Wayne in a best-of-three series. Toledo, in the fourth spot, vies with Troy, in another three-game go. The winners the square off for the honor of battling the Cincinnati-Marion victor.

The playoffs start tomorrow night at Cincinnati, Toledo and Johnstown. Sites are alternated until winners are determined.

The Mohawks are favored to take the Joseph B. Turner Memorial Trophy, symbolic of the playoff title. Their three lines are equally capable of offense. Goalie Charley Hodge, who racked up his 10th shutout of the season Saturday, leads the league in the whitewash department.

He blanked the Barons 2-0 in their last meeting, a victory which increased Cincinnati's season margin over the runnersup to 5-3.

Troy and Fort Wayne ended up with the same number of points, but Troy got the fifth-place berth because it had won more games.

Top Squads Defeated in NCAA Play

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Four surprise teams, whose chances of appearing in collegiate basketball's annual climactic show were considered rather slim, will fight it out for the NCAA championship this weekend.

Coming up from regional playoffs last Saturday are the La Salle Explorers of Philadelphia, Penn State's Nittany Lions, Southern California's Trojans and the Bradley University Braves.

Bradley, which upset Oklahoma A&M 71-57 at Stillwater, Okla., and Southern Cal, 66-65 double overtime victor over Santa Clara at Corvallis, will meet in the first semifinal game Friday night.

Penn State and La Salle clash in the second game the same night. Penn State humbled Notre Dame 71-63 at Iowa City. La Salle got to Navy 64-48 at Philadelphia.

The finals are scheduled in Municipal Auditorium Saturday.

Both Penn State and Bradley are at-large entries.

Of the semifinalists, only La Salle was given much of a pretournament buildup. The Explorers were ranked 12th nationally in the Associated Press poll. Bradley, Southern Cal and Penn State didn't make the top 20.

Southern Cal, which lost to Kansas 42-43 in the 1940 finals of the Western championships, took the only shot in the second overtime session at Corvallis and won. After Dick Welsh of USC scored a free throw early in the last session, Santa Clara elected to stall and gamble on one shot. The Broncos never got off a shot.

Third places in the regionals were won by Indiana, the 1953 national champion, 73-62 over Louisiana State by Iowa City; North Carolina, 65-54 over Cornell at Philadelphia; Rice, 78-55 over Colorado A&M at Corvallis.

Other than the USC-Santa Clara game, there wasn't too much contesting in the regional finals.

Bradley, handspanked and barred from NCAA postseason games last year because of rules infractions, poured it on Oklahoma A&M by 14 points in the Aggies' own gym. Bradley played like its fine team of 1950, which went to the finals in both the NCAA and NIT meets.

Penn State employed an effective shifting zone defense in snapping Notre Dame's winning string at 18 games. Ed Haag's three set shots late in the third period were the deciding blows.

All America Tom Gola and sophomore teammate Bob Maples got together to put La Salle into the final playoff. Maples hit for only 13 points, but he got 8 of them early in the third period when the chips were down. Gola scored 22.

Don Thompson, outfielder for the Brooklyn Dodgers, entered organized ball as a pitcher in 1943 and hurled a no-hit game for Louisville in 1945. The next year a sore arm forced him to quite the mound.

Youngstown Pair Wins YMCA Area Badminton Championship

A total of 30 matches were played on the two YMCA gymnasium floors Saturday to determine the Ohio-West Virginia Area Class A and Class B Badminton championships. Bob LaTuchie and Jim Renn of Youngstown captured the Class A doubles by defeating Reed and Smith of Huntington W. Va. 11-15, 15-4, and 15-6.

LaTuchie, the outstanding player in the tournament, also was awarded the Class A singles as he breeed through his matches with ease to defeat his doubles partner 15-6, 15-7 in the singles.

Tucci and Markell of Cleveland Central defeated Chance and White of Huntington in the Class B doubles finals 15-12, 10-15, and 17-14 while Don Minor defeated Cliff Harbrecht in the B singles finals 15-2, 15-6. Minor is from the Cedar Avenue YMCA in Cleveland.

Marion entries in doubles reached the semi-final matches before bowing out. George Wood and Carl Knirk defeated a team from Huntington and Ruddy Metzger and Tom Clark dumped a Cleveland team before dropping matches to the finalists.

Bud Mathiot won two straight singles matches in the Class B section before he was forced to leave the tournament and forfeit all remaining matches.

Double Main Event Carded at Armory

A double main event will feature the Thursday wrestling card at the Marion Armory.

Action will get underway at 8:30 p.m. with Mr. Satan taking on Scotty Williams in a one-fall match. Williams currently holds the tri-state gold belt.

One of the double main event matches which follows will pair Kathleen Wimbley of Columbus with Babs Wingo of New Orleans.

Other half of the double main event will have the Bowery Boys taking on Billy Fox and Marco Polo.

Both of the latter bouts are two-out-of-three fall matches and have a 60 minute time limit.

Feller Fights To Keep Job As Regular

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Almost two decades ago—1936 to be exact—a powerful, fuzzy-cheeked youngster strode into the spring training camp of the Cleveland Indians Manager Steve O'Neill liked what he saw and that started Bob Feller's career.

Today, 249 victories later, Feller, the oldest major leaguer in point of service, is fighting for a starting job. He'll have a job, all right, but at the moment he doesn't figure as one of the Big Four.

The onetime fireballer, who never did spend a day in the minors, is hopeful that at 35 he can help the Indians break the New York Yankees' stranglehold on the American League pennant.

"I hope I can win a batch this year," he said. "But it won't be like 1946 when I pitched 371 innings and struck out 348. I think I worked 36 complete games that year. I've never kept track of my relief record, but I've never been much of a hand at it."

The best guess is that Manager Al Lopez will spot Feller wherever he can. If Rapid Robert doesn't want to do bullpen duty he probably won't be forced to.

The cuffing he took during his three-inning stint against the New York Giants in Tuscon, Ariz., yesterday should not cause Lopez too much concern. The Giants won the ball game 16-6 and slugged Feller for eight hits and a half-dozen runs. But it was Bob's first outing and veterans sometimes are slow to warm up.

Hal Newhouser, another old-timer, is trying to make a comeback with the Indians and he was equally unimpressive. He gave up 10 hits and another six runs. Newhouser is not under contract.

Speaking of ol' folks, Sal Maglie, the Giants' 37-year-old right-hander who has been plagued by assorted ills for the last two seasons, went four innings and was tapped for only two hits. Manager Leo Durocher was enthused over the performance.

"I hadn't seen Sal look so good all last year," he gushed.

Indians To Play Westmont In Regional Event at Troy

By JOHN SHORT

Mt. Gilead High School was wearing the Central District Class B cage crown today after romping to a 67-56 win over Pickaway County's Williamsport Saturday night at Capital University's Alumni gym.

A standing-room only crowd, estimated at over 3,500, watched Coach Les Grace's Indians jump into an early lead which they never relinquished. Next stop for the high-flying M. Gilead quintet will be the regional tourney at Troy Friday night when it tangles with Westmont, 24-1, from Darke County. Westmont is a consolidated school comprised of students from Palestine and Hollansburg.

Moody, Mosher Shine

Ted Moody and John Mosher got the new champions off to a flying start with an early scoring burst and the Indians led 5-0 before Jack Picklesimer dropped in a free throw for the Deers' first marker.

The Mt. Gilead romp continued and at the end of the first period, Grace's charges had built up a 23-14 lead Bob Picklesimer of the Deers was pulled from the game with a minute and 32 seconds remaining when he contacted his third personal foul.

Mt. Gilead's tight zone defense kept the Williamsport attack off balance throughout the second period and the halftime count was 38-25 with the Indians out front.

John Staley and Dick Zolman were the difference when the Williamsport crew finally broke out of its slump. The shooting of the Deers perked up and their passing smoothed out in the final half. Staley and Zolman held absolute control of the rebounds and the sharp shooting of Moody. Mosher and John Bachelder killed any hopes for a comeback by the Deers.

Picklesimer returned to action in the third period and sparked the final last-ditch effort by the Deers. He dumped in three field goals to lift his total to 13 points before his fifth foul with a minute and a half left. His final field goal cut the deficit to six points, 57-51.

Roughhouse Action

During the late stages of the final frame, the Deers turned the game into a roughouse in an effort to gain control from the cautious Indians. The Mt. Gilead squad gave its usual demonstration of coolness under fire as it reverted to a careful control game. During the final two minutes, six fouls were charged against the Deers as they deliberately fouled the Indians to force them to shoot.

Mosher led the Mt. Gilead attack with 17 points while the other four starters also hit for double figure scores. Moody finished with 15, Bachelder had 13, Zolman 12 and Staley 10. Bob Picklesimer and Ron James were high for the Deers with 13 each.

A large delegation of Mt. Gilead fans jammed the west side of the Capital gym an hour before the game. Business firms in the village closed their doors Saturday afternoon as the entire area called it a holiday. The rest of the gym was packed 45 minutes before opening tipoff and many fans stood throughout the game at each end of the floor.

—:—

Leading the cheering for the Indians in addition to the regular Indians in addition to the regular cheer leading squad, was Scott Wheeler, a Mt. Gilead merchant. He was dressed in full Indian regalia with war bonnet and drum.

—:—

Grace returned his charges to the floor three minutes early during the halftime intermission. Less than a minute and 30 seconds were

Upsets Mark Championship Games in District Tourneys

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The list of contenders for Ohio's top high school basketball honors has dwindled to 34 teams from a starting field of 1,068.

Two more will be eliminated tonight, leaving 16 each in the 'A and 'B' classes. Regional tournaments this week will reduce the field to four teams in each class The state championship tournament will be held in Cleveland March 26-27.

In games tonight, Cleveland Cathedral Latin (15-4) meets Chagrin Falls Orange (18-3) and Struthers (13-10) battles Canton South (17-4) for 2 Class A regional berths

Pairings for five of the eight regional tournaments were made yesterday. Others will be announced tomorrow, all for the northeastern district

Seven former champions are left, 4 in Class B and 3 in Class A Much of this year's power is in the traditionally strong southwestern district, where Class A crowns have gone 7 times in the last 10 years But Middletown, top-ranked in the final Associated Press poll and state champions last season, fell before Dayton Roosevelt Saturday night 64-62

Middletown's fall means there will be new champions in both classes. Class B champion Marlemont moved up this year to Class A

But the 1953 Class B runnerup, Philo, is still in this year's race Once-beaten Philo (25-1) had an easy romp in the district tournament but faces a real test Thursday night at Athens against New Lexington St Aloysius (20-4) It might develop into an individual battle between Philo's 6-3 Don Brannon and 6-8 Mile Allen of St Aloysius

In Wednesday night's opener at Athens Waverly (22-6) plays Hartford (18-4).

Lockland Wayne's well-balanced team (22-2) faces rugged New Vienna (21-1) Friday in the Troy regional opener, with Westmont (24-1) and Mount Gilead (20-3) in the other game Mount Gilead took the Columbus district crown but had to win two overtime battles to do it

The Class A regional at Cincinnati figures to be one of the state's toughest The opening game Friday is between Dayton Roosevelt and Hamilton, two of the state's top-rated teams Hamilton (21-3) finished second in the AP poll and Roosevelt (20-1) was eighth Hamilton won a one-point decision over Roosevelt early in the season

In the second game, Portsmouth, a 'Cinderella' team with an unimpressive 13-9 record will play Tecumseh (22 0), one of the state's two undefeated Class A clubs Portsmouth won upset victories over highly-touted Gallipolis Chillicothe and Greenfield in district play.

The Toledo Class A regionals get underway Friday with Toledo Macomber (17-3) playing Lima Central (11-7) in the opener and Columbus South (19-4), which beat Columbus North and Hamilton, meeting Defiance (16-3) in the second game.

Two former champions figure in the Class B Toledo regional. Delphos St Johns (25-4) meets Leipsic (17-3) in Thursday's first game Huron (19-1), which won the state crown in 1917 when the state meet had no A and B classes, plays Ottoville (22-2) in the second game

All three former Class A champions are in the Cincinnati meet—Portsmouth (1931), Dayton Roosevelt (1934) and Hamilton (1937-49)

Columbiana (18 - 5), 1947 Class B winner, competes in the northeastern regional against Vienna (29-0), Copley (23-0) and Tuscarawas (22-2) Site of the tournament will be decided tomorrow

In the Class A northeastern area, the following teams will be fighting it out with tonight's winners Bridgeport (14-9), Cuyahoga Falls (16-4) Akron Central (14-5), Canton McKinley (18-3), Kent Roosevelt (20-4) and Niles (23-0) The Class A sites also will be chosen tomorrow.

Legion Post Enters Semi-Final Position

Bird-McGinnis American Legion Post 162 moved into the semi-finals of the Mansfield basketball tournament by edging Kellers Plumbing of Mansfield 47-46 there over the weekend

The local quintet was forced to stall the final few minutes of the tilt after a strong rally by the losers in the second half almost overcame Marion's early 10-point lead

Ken Jones and Tom Moran with 14 and nine points respectively, paced the local Legion team's attack Wolfe and Williams each added five, Smith four, Gilbert and Leser three apiece, and Guy and Lee two each.

In Memory

Of our beloved mother, Anna L. Burchard, who passed away one year ago today, March 15, 1953.

Like bells that chime in harmony,
We hear again in memory,
Our mother's voice, though silent now.
Her hands are resting — we remember how
Weary from toil thay often were,
Memories of her will guide us here.
With shining faith, she looked beyond the end of life's last mile,
And blest so many loved ones by her tender, patient smile;
She faced the lonely valley with calm serenity,
Knowing that her Pilot would guide her safely
Past troubled waters, and through the shadows deep.
Healing hands, so gently closed our mother's eyes in sleep,
We would not wish her back again,
To suffer through the years;
So just as she would have us do,
We brush away our tears.

Radio and Television

By John Crosby

Progress Report

So what's happening to educational television? In New York it has had perhaps the roughest going anywhere in the country, largely because the Board of Regents plan for 10 state - supported TV stations failed to get financial support from the Legislature. ture.

J. CROSBY

Consequently, while other communities like Chicago and St. Louis were raising private funds for educational TV, New Yorkers sat around on their hands waiting for the Legislature to do it for them. When the hope went glimmering, an organization called the Metropolitan Educational Association was formed to set up an educational TV station with private funds.

-:-

WELL, THE METROPOLITAN, which may in time be as well known as the Metropolitan Opera and the Metropolitan Museum, has a promise of $250,000 from the Ford Foundation if it can raise a matching $250,000 and it almost certainly can.

The Metropolitan will seek $750,000 to start operations and would really like to have $1,000,000. But educational TV is far from imminent in New York City. For one thing, a bill in the Legislature has a section that, in effect, would ban all controversial matter. The educators say they simply couldn't teach with such a millstone around their neck.

If the bill is delayed, educational TV is at least a year away. When and if Channel 25 gets under way, it will be available to 110 schools, colleges, museums and such educational nonprofit outfits with which New York City is loaded. There should be plenty of talent available.

AT THE MOMENT, the most active agency in the educational TV field is New York University, a private university which is not to be confused with New York State University.

I had a talk with Dr. David D. Henry, vice-chancellor of NYU and a great enthusiast for educational TV. Among other things, Dr. Henry thinks educational TV can do tremendous things for the pre-school child of from 2 to 5 years.

Children in that age bracket learn faster than anyone else. Yet this group is still the great void in the American public school system. There are no free schools for this group because there isn't any money.

Dr. Henry points out that, while this group is too young for numbers and letters, they rapidly absorb cultural and language concepts and attitudes toward society which are of vast help to them later on.

NYU NOW HAS FOUR educational shows on the air all staffed by NYU teachers. Practically all teachers, it has been discovered, have a bit of ham in them. It's no problem at all to get them to undertake a television show on their own time for free. However, after the first flush of enthusiasm dies, TV teaching becomes just another chore and the teachers become restive. Eventually, Dr. Henry thinks, the teachers will have to be paid for this extra work.

There is an audience for educational television and while it is very small by commercial standards, it is very large by university standards. For instance, NYU's program "Today's English" (now off the air) offered a syllabus for $1. Twenty-two hundred people bought it — which is a very large English class.

Letters came from all sorts of people ranging from doctors and lawyers to people who could barely write English. Foreign - born, who had just got to this country, were wonderstruck that someone would bother to teach them English for nothing in their own living rooms.

RIGHT NOW NYU has four shows, all on commercial stations. They are "Here Is the Past" (on archeology), "Animals Are Fun" (biology), "Our Goodly Heritage" (on the Bible), and "University" (which aims to teach what a university is and what it does.)

It's hard to tell what people will take to, Dr. Henry says. He says he never would have thought that archeology was particularly suited to TV teaching but it has had a tremendous following.

Parents of Boy Cited

An eight-year-old Marion boy was found wandering on W. Center St. at 12:15 a.m. Sunday, and his parents have been cited to appear before juvenile officers Tuesday afternoon. The youngster, who previously has appeared before juvenile officers, was picked up by two Marion policemen and taken to his home.

The entire 241 miles of the Ohio Turnpike is scheduled to be open for traffic by October 1, 1955.

Lenten Meditations

This is one in a series of Lenten meditations prepared by the members of the Marion County Ministerial Association for publication in The Star.

The Asset of Prayer

By REV. L. E. AMES
Pastor of First EUB Church

"And Jesus lifted up his eyes and said, Father, I thank thee that thou hearest me always."—John 11:41,42.

The heart-warming prayer ministry of Jesus attains a tremendous crescendo of sublime attractiveness and effectiveness as He approaches the grand finale of His Passion experience

Prayer is a lifting tide in human affairs We all have seen, or heard of, the ocean tides which ebb and flow. When the tide comes flooding up the bay it lifts every ship: ocean liner and each tiny craft; millionaire's luxurious yacht and old garbage scow; proud ship which flies "old glory" and the one whose flag is foreign. Prayer is like that. There is not a person whose life cannot be lifted if the spiritual tides can get at it with inspiration and power through spiritual contacts. Prayer practice can be as quiet, as powerful, as certain as the tides. Quiet forces are the powerful ones. Thunder is an exciting noise caused by a lightning bolt; but gravitation is a quiet force which lifts the tides and holds the worlds in place.

Oh, the fathomless, measureless possibilities of prayer! In all of music there are seven basic notes; in all of art there are seven basic colors; in our whole alphabet there are only 26 letters. Yet these are enough for the composition of all majestic oratorios ever sung; for all masterpieces of art in all the galleries of the world; for the mightiest orations which have swayed history. Then, who can tell the riches of grace, the mastery of life, the exalted accomplishments in Christ of those who make full use of the simple, practical, available assets of prayer!

PRAYER: "Lord, teach us to pray."

Cornell's Oldest Living Graduate Hearty at 101

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — George M McGuire leaned back in his chair yesterday after blowing out 101 birthday candles

"Abstemiousness," he said, "abstemiousness both in eating and drinking has been my formula for a long life."

McGuire, oldest living graduate of Cornell University and a New Yorker by birth added:

"Of course, there was a time in Detroit when I celebrated my 28th birthday pretty often, and I never thought of abstemiousness then."

(Webster defines abstemiousness as sparing in diet, food and drink and sparing in indulgences of tastes or passions.)

Wonder what the buggy-whip manufacturer, who saw the handwriting on the wall a few years back and switched over to airplane propeller manufacture, is thinking about in this jet age.

'A SOPRANO'. Little Shirley Marguerite Condon, one-week-old, exercised her vocal cords at Memphis, Tenn for her vivacious singing mother, Marguerite Piazza, in private life Mrs William J Condon The little lady tips the scale at 5 pounds, 10½ ounces Mrs Condon says her little daughter "definitely has a soprano voice," like her mother.

WHY a Vegetable Laxative is better for CONSTIPATION

Vegetable laxatives are much better for you than harsh, jolting ones. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a pure-vegetable formula They give you a complete cleaning out yet are so gentle. Olive Tablets give more 'natural-like' bowel movements No griping! No purging! No sudden inconvenience! Take one or two tonight to give complete satisfaction at the desired time in the morning.

Plane Conks Out, Prince Bernhard Asks Another Ride

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands flies to the flight test center at Edwards Air Force Base today hoping to again fly the plane that quit on him over the Pacific

The visit will complete a four-day tour of southern California aviation installations by the handsome 42-year-old husband of Queen Juliana.

Saturday, while he was flying in a propeller-driven T28B, trainer, the engine sputtered and stopped about six miles out over the Pacific Lt Col. A. T House, U S Air Force plant representative at North American Aviation, brought the plane in for a successful dead stick landing

The prince asked for another trip in the same plane after commenting "There was no danger of swimming"

Methods of distributing risks to guard against fire and other hazards to life and property were set up in Ohio by the first settlers.

The Industrial Commission of Ohio was created in 1912 to administer the Workmen's Compensation Law.

The Ohio Turnpike will be fenced throughout its entire 241 miles. The fence will be four feet four inches high with a strand of barbed wire at the top and bottom to make it "pig tight, horse high and bull strong."

The Yale University Alumni Fund for 1950 - 51 collected slightly more than one million dollars. It was the first time that the annual alumni fund of any American college or university had ever reached the million mark.

The most important oil producing formations in Ohio now are the Clinton sand and Medina sand found chiefly in Perry and Muskingum Counties.

$8 Million Project

First Phase of Training School Plan Nears Finish

Nearing completion is the first phase of an $8,000,000 expansion program at the Marion Training School that will eventually result in the housing of 1,500 inmates.

Lamoyne Green, superintendent, says the first phase of construction should be completed May 1, the second phase a year later, and the third some time in 1956. When finished the Marion Training School should be a model correctional school, Green said.

PLANS CALL for housing 1,500 first offenders between the ages of 16 and 25 who have committed crimes of less than first degree murder. Green says, "I believe we will be sent the type where there is hope for rehabilitation through training."

Nearing completion are the power and heating plants, 10 dormitories, some class rooms, reception center, holding and disciplinary cells, a service tunnel, barbership, shoe repair shop, commissary and quartermaster depot.

SCHEDULED TO BEGIN construction soon are more dormitories and cell blocks, a drill hall and a large shop building. The third phase, which is still in the planning stage, calls for the administration building, hospital, mess hall, and honor dormitories for 300 boys.

This expansion was provided for by legislation passed by the 100th General Assembly of Ohio. It is the opening wedge designed to make Ohio's penal system the finest in the country.

About 344 boys have been inmates in the Marion Training School since it began getting transferees from the Mansfield Reformatory. They have been housed in army-type barracks which Green characterized as "firetraps." There have been no facilities for classroom instruction, and no trade schooling, only instruction incident to maintenance of the institution. There have been no inside recreation facilities that permitted physical exertion.

THE IMPROVEMENTS, according to Green, will permit academic instruction for grades 1 through 12 by certified teachers using standards and textbooks approved by the Ohio Department of Education. A boy will be able to get a diploma there just as valid as that issued by any school in the state. Vocational training will include just about every type of practical instruction boys of that age level can learn.

To operate the expanded program the full-time staff of 53 will be more than quadrupled.

The Marion Training School will continue to be an institution of medium security, Green said. This means that it will have a fence. A maximum security prison has walls and a minimum security institution is one with neither fence nor walls. However, the local institution will have security windows and the dormitory doors will be locked, innovations from the present practice. The security windows appear to be ordinary paned windows, but the sashes are made of special hardened steel that defies both sawing and an acetylene torch.

Security will be increased by the addition of holding cell blocks. Green says the current disciplinary practices call for return to Mansfield in extreme cases, serving of additional time in moderate cases and removal of privileges in minor. Unpleasant jobs might be required as part of discipline such tasks as scrubbing or window washing. Violent inmates have in the past been taken to Marion city jail, for, as Green says, they cannot be allowed to endanger other boys at the training school.

THE NEW CELL BLOCKS will eliminate such usage of the city jail and will be used to house new inmates during their period of orientation.

The honor dormitories are Green's most hoped-for dream. These will be essentially the same as the other housing units, though honor boys will have special privileges. Honor boys are those who work the training school's 1,243-acre farm. Though guards are in attendance boys are almost entirely on their own. Escape is relatively easy. None have ever tried so far. The crops are used by this and other penal institutions.

Election of officers for the new year was held in the business session. They include Mrs. Gerald Persinger, president; Robert Wilson, first vice president; Floyd Hofacker, second vice president; Mrs. Rupert Martin, secretary; Mrs. Willis Holloway, treasurer; Mrs. James Crabtree, council representative; Mrs. Clair Johnson, alternate council representative.

Reds Get Too Many Secrets, CIA Boss Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's top intelligence executive said today, "We tell Russia too much."

Director Allen W. Dulles of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) declared in an interview in the weekly newsmagazine U. S. News and World Report:

"We Americans publish a great deal in our scientific and technical journals and in congressional hearings. . . .

"I would give a good deal if I could know as much about the Soviet Union as the Soviet Union can learn about us by merely reading the press.

"Sometimes I think we go too far in what our government gives out officially and in what is published in the scientific and technical field. We tell Russia too much."

Dulles, a brother to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, said U. S. intelligence evaluation is now set up so as to prevent any military surprises such as the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941 or the Red Chinese intervention in Korea in 1950.

Woman Complains, Says Her Pigeons Can't Sleep

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Her pigeons have insomnia, a housewife complained to police last night.

Officer G. A. Eurio said the woman explained it this way:

A floodlight burns all night in a neighbor's back yard.

It keeps the pigeons awake. They get so sleepy they often tumble off roosts. Several have been seriously injured.

The woman wanted police to tell the neighbor to turn off the light so her pigeons can get a little shut-eye. Officers were investigating.

Einstein Quietly Marks 75th Birthday at Home

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—Dr. Albert Einstein observed his 75th birthday yesterday in his customary fashion —at home and without fuss.

Although the famed scientist himself disdained celebration, a flood of congratulatory letters and telegrams from friends all over the world poured into his home here.

And there was a birthday cake, baked by his secretary, Miss Helen Dukas. But there were no candles. Einstein once remarked that birthdays are for children.

Scout Units in Camp

Two Marion Boy Scouts troops spent the weekend at Camp Owens. They were Troop 6, sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church, and Troop 3 of Epworth Methodist Church.

Members of Troop 6 worked on their display of fire-making for the Scout Wali-Ga-Zhu, which will be held March 28 at the Coliseum. Boys in Troop 3 worked on advancement.

Vision Defects Linked To Fatal Traffic Crashes

BOSTON (AP)—One out of every six of the country's automobile drivers has eye defects without realizing it, an American Optometric Assn. official said last night.

Administrative Director J. Harold Bailey reported that Connecticut and Rhode Island, with the lowest death rates per mile of travel, have the highest driver's vision standards.

The resignation of Roger M. Kyes and the appointment of Robert B. Anderson of Texas, now serving as secretary of the navy, to succeed him as deputy secretary of defense have reopened a problem of first-rate importance for the Eisenhower administration.

Its record will be made over a four-year pull on its skill in public administration. But there is nothing dramatic, nothing colorful about the grinding labor of the public chore boys whose long hours and endless patience are the ultimate secret of good government. It's all work and no play.

Kyes came to Washington originally as a favor to Defense Secretary Wilson, with whom he had been associated in General Motors Corp. It became his job to do the unpleasant administrative tasks which grew out of the new administration's policy of giving the Pentagon a new look.

Kyes won no popularity contests. He was not trying to make himself popular. He was trying to do a good job of reorganization so he could get back into private enterprise as quickly as possible to recover the losses he had been forced to sustain when he came to Washington.

The point is that it takes men like Kyes to give the federal government the benefit of the management skill which has made American enterprise world-famous for its efficiency and vigor. Yet, men like Kyes cannot afford to serve the government for more than a few months at a time.

They cannot afford the financial loss, and they cannot afford the browbeating they must undergo at the hands of critics who try to drive them back into private enterprise or trim them down to size if they stay in Washington.

Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry Truman both acknowledged this was their hardest administrative problem—this inability of political authority to draw on the highest talents of the citizenship for unlimited government service.

President Eisenhower has had the benefit of some of the ablest administrators that the public could not afford to buy. But they are under no compulsion to stay in Washington forever. Kyes only happens to be the first one of the outstanding individuals to leave.

Put on Those Easter Bonnets

A milliner fellow with the improbable name of John P. John has hit the free publicity jackpot with a list of the country's 10 "worst-hatted" women.

With Easter just around the corner, his idea couldn't miss. It not only showed imagination but contains a spark of truth.

John has applied to a list of celebrities some observations which other men have been making for years—that Mrs. So-and-So's hats always look as if they came out of a trunk—that Aunt Susie's make her look like a frump and so on.

Then there is the woman who should wear a hat and never does—Rita Hayworth, on the J. John list. And the one whose hats make her look as if she were peeved at someone and trying to get even—Edna Ferber on the J. John list.

We may as well face it, both women and men. Women's hats, which are made and worn to impress women and to please men, sometimes fail in both regards.

This milliner named John P. John has no monopoly on the idea of listing the 10 "worst-hatted" women. With Easter coming, anyone can make his own list. We have our first entry now, the name to be filled in later—the woman whose hats always make her look like a startled animal peering out of a bush.

A Letter From James J. Moran

Not everybody has forgotten that former Mayor O'Dwyer of New York City, who resigned to become U.S. ambassador to Mexico in 1950, then resigned after the corruption scandal broke in New York City to go into law practice in Mexico City, never accepted personal responsibility for wickedness in the metropolis.

It always was his belief that the Kefauver Committee's accusations against him as well as the indictment and conviction of James J. Moran, the fire department appointee now serving a prison sentence for "Masterminding" a shakedown racket claimed to have netted half a million dollars a year, were part of an arrangement whereby his administration was made the goat in a cleanup staged for the benefit of the politically gullible.

Whether that was true or false is now an academic question. O'Dwyer is out of politics, Moran is in prison and the current cleanup in New York politics is at the expense of Gov. Dewey's state administration, not the administration of New York City.

But suddenly the academic question of responsibility has been made lively by a 75-page letter written by Moran in prison, where he has been since last March. This letter, delivered to the Court of Appeals, is believed to be a response to invitations made repeatedly to Moran during his trial to reveal the names of the people being protected by his silence. In 75 pages of manuscript there could be enough names to make a short one like O'Dwyer seem negligible.

Somebody Will Be Hurt

By James Marlow

Stevens-McCarthy Feud Past Truce Stage

WASHINGTON — A man dazed by a direct hit on his head with a political coconut stays flattened or gets back on his feet and pitches some of his own coconuts. Robert T. Stevens got back on his feet.

Now he is Jack, the would-be giant killer, the only man among the Republicans in Congress on the Eisenhower administration who ever took on Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) in a life-and-death struggle.

This 54-year-old wealthy businessman who came here to be secretary of the Army was leading an actively but seemingly quiet life in the Pentagon until McCarthy hit him square on the head, and in public.

Most men might have felt the bump right away. Stevens, perhaps because he was a political novice, seemed not to know he was it and spoke at first as though he had scored a victory.

HE SOON LEARNED his action was generally considered a surrender. It was reported he sobbed. Then he got indignant, then mad. It was hard to see, though, how he could fight back after the shellacking he took. But he did.

The public didn't know at first that he had been dealing with McCarthy long before he got the bump.

Late in February Stevens, accusing McCarthy of abusing Army officers, refused to let the senator question any more of them until he had first faced him in a public, televised hearing.

But the day before this meeting Stevens accepted an invitation to lunch with McCarthy and three Republican senators on his committee: Mundt (SD), Dirksen (Ill) and Potter (Mich).

In a "memorandum of understanding" which came out of the meeting, Stevens agreed to let McCarthy quiz his generals. McCarthy agreed to nothing, at least in writing. Stevens went back to the Pentagon and told his generals he had won his point with McCarthy:

ARMY OFFICERS henceforth would be treated fairly. Stevens aides got a look at the memorandum: where did it say anything about fair treatment? It didn't. But, Stevens said, he had a verbal understanding on that.

The reality began to dawn on him. He heard that same afternoon McCarthy had told a reporter Stevens could not have surrendered more abjectly if he had gone down on his knees. Then Stevens heard how the newspapers were regarding the memorandum: Stevens surrenders.

Mundt and Potter came to his rescue, saying there had been agreement on fair play for Army witnesses. Stevens appealed to President Eisenhower for support and got it. But what could Stevens do now?

What the public didn't know was that Stevens, McCarthy and Roy Cohn, chief counsel of McCarthy's investigating committee, had had a number of conversations about G. David Schine, Cohn's pal and a nonpaid worker for the committee until he was drafted into the Army.

THERE WERE RUMORS Cohn had interceded with the Army for special treatment for Schine. Finally a Democratic member of McCarthy's committee, Sen. McClellan of Arkanssa, repeatedly asked the Army for a report on all this.

But between McClellan's first request in January and last week, when the 34-page report was released, Stevens had been hit with the McCarthy coconut at the unforgettable luncheon.

The report said McCarthy and Cohn first tried to get a commission for Schine, had later asked special consideration for him, and that Cohn had threatened to get Stevens' job and wreck the Army if Pvt. Schine didnt get the fair-haired-boy treatment.

McCarthy and Cohn denied the story the report told. McCarthy additionally accused the Army of "blackmail." He produced what he called memoranda from his committees files charging that:

Stevens and the Army's chief counsel, John Adams, had talked of Schine as their "hostage" against McCarthy's investigation of the Army and tried to divert the investigation by promising "dirt" on the Navy and Air Force.

It seems impossible that Stevens and McCarthy can both come out of there with their hair still parted in the middle.

Such as Sleep O' Nights

By TRUMAN TWILL

Despite a rousing declaration in the chairman's letter to U. S. Steel Corp. stockholders that their company had its best year in 1953, Mrs. Wilma Soss—a stockholder—is worried.

The same pamphlet that contained the chairman's letter contained a picture of the chairman, personable, dynamic Benjamin F. Fairless. And there was no doubt about it; Chairman Fairless looked jowly in the picture.

Mrs. Soss, spokesman for the Federation of Women Shareholders, went into action as soon as she saw the picture. She pointed out in a letter to her chairman that the boys in the big jobs began to live high when they got into the multiple-digit brackets. She pointed out this was potentially bad for business and no good for dividends because they fattened up unduly.

She suggested that what Chairman Fairless had better think about was a sit-in for some of the banquets he would be attending. She suggested he should have sent the sit-in to some of the banquets he already had attended.

She made it plain she did not share Julius Caesar's fondness for "men . . . that are fat; sleek-headed men, and such as sleep o' nights"—not in charge of her investments.

In behalf of lady shareholders she preferred her corporate officials to have a "lean and hungry look." Significantly, Chairman Fairless made no rejoinder, but one will get you five that he took a second look at the picture which alarmed Mrs. Soss and a second look at the reading on the bathroom scales.

While it ain't necessarily so, Mrs. Soss was entitled to her opinion that the chairman of U. S. Steel would be a better bet for the long pull if he dropped some lard. It depends on Mr. Fairless, of course.

As our favorite commentator on poundage was saying the other day, there's no such thing as being too heavy unless you have more weight than you can carry without grunting. Some people who knock themselves out fighting their weight would be well advised to retire from the contest before they hurt themselves trying.

Our favorite consultant is syndicated columnist Ida Jean Kain—and she is our favorite because she admits there is such a thing as more bounce to the ounce, along with being lithe and limber.

Having recently gained four pounds, all of it in one place, we are inclined to be sympathetic with Mr. Fairless, who looks as if he had gained 44, and most of it on the jowls.

These are the first four pounds we have gained since the Hoover administration, and they put us only 20-odd pounds under par for our height and age. But if anyone had the gall to write in and say he'd noticed that Rattlebones Twill had been putting it on and had better send a stand-in to the table before they put gussets in all his pants, Rattlebones would resent it in person, noisily.

Having been Cassius, we now want to be more like Fairless . . . .

Time for Reason in McCarthy Debate

By Raymond Moley

A good many days ago I had resolved that at least this commentator would stay away from the storm that swirls around the name of Sen. McCarthy until the skies were clear enough to see the stars of reason and logic. But for reasons only one of which I propose to mention today, the tempest grows more intense day by day.

Perhaps even now this comment will be seized upon by some as new ammunition for one side or the other. Certainly, I entertain no illusion that it can be of much help in calming things down. But with equal certainty I feel that it can do no harm.

ONE OF THE most violent critics of McCarthy has been the Washington Post. But in a recent editorial it deplores a sermon delivered by the Rev. Doctor Robert J. McCracken of the Riverside Church in New York.

The Post quotes the Rev. Mr. McCracken as saying that McCarthy is "a member of a church that has never disavowed the Inquisition, that makes a policy of censorship, that insists on conformity." I have not seen the rest of the McCracken sermon, but this is enough to make my point.

McCracken is a notable name in American religious circles largely because he is pastor of a famous church and because he was chosen to succeed the distinguished Harry Emerson Fosdick.

His biography indicates a steady rise in the church with which he has been affiliated.

He was born in Scotland and educated there. Until he reached the age of 34 he preached in various churches in Scotland and lectured in a college on theology.

THEN HE CAME to Hamilton, Ontatio, where he taught theology until 1946, when he was called to the Riverside Church.

Presumably, Dr. McCracken has been admitted to American citizenship and is a resident, not a guest of the United States. Therefore, he is entitled to participate in our political squabbles as much as he feels it is wise to do. But when he does, he should know that it is not in the best American tradition to drag religion into politics.

Dr. McCracken is, it is true, of a tradition in which politics has been to a degree interwoven with religious issues. But ngland and Scotland are small, homogeneous, and accustomed to interreligious controversy. Aside from an occasional bashed-in head, no serious results accrue.

But the United States is a vast country with millions of former immigrants, with a racial problem of stupendous proportions, and with a smarting memory of such movements as Know-Nothingism, The APA, and the Klan. To play with fire in a teacup is one thing. To get careless with matches in the redwoods is another.

Support of or opposition to McCarthy has not followed religious lines.

IT IS HARDLY revelant here to point out the absurdity of dragging the Inquisition into the current discussion. I am no church historian and I shall not argue the point whether the Catholic Church has disavowed the Inquisition. Nor shall I assume, as many do, that the Inquisition was good or bad.

The United States has done some things in history for which I am ashamed, but I never expected Congress to disavow acts of long ago. Nor, so far as I know, has the British Parliament disavowed bad things which England did to McCracken's native land in ages past.

This religious leader might well note, however, that the Catholic clergy during the Al Smith campaign of 1928 maintained silence in the face of violent controversy.

The pastor of the Riverside Church might well keep his political comments free of far-off times and battles long ago.

Otherwise, McCrackenism may be an issue as well as McCarthyism.

Daily Bible Thought

This idea of service instead of domination has spread through our civilization and many do spend their lives to free men from poverty and fear and bondage. "The son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and give his life a ransom for many. —Matt. 20:28.

Oxygen by Wire

By Frank Tripp

One side of what was Will Gardner's shop at Seneca's water edge has been turned into sort of a curio shop, by assembling there scores of treasures from the old fellow's past. It is an intriguing array of strange items which few of the present generation can name.

"Uncle Will," you'll remember, was my "Richest Man I Know"—his wealth being the patience, good cheer and contentment that he radiated to all mankind, to the end of his days at 85, four years ago. Then his shop became mine, and remains as Will worked in it for 40 years, cobwebs, mice, squirrels, bats and all.

"WHAT IN THE world is that?" are the first and most frequent words of visitors. Thanks to the summers I spent there with Will, most always I can answer them. Some of the curios I encountered years before I knew him.

Notable among such items is one which proves that, with all his wisdom and thrift, back in the Gay Nineties Will was a fall guy as was my mother. That's how I knew right off that a certain little nickel-plated gadget was an "Oxydonor."

IF ANY OF my readers would have recognized it I'd like to hear from them. We'll form the SDGS Club—"sons and daughters of gullible suckers." My mother sent in $5 for an "Oxydonor," patented 1890. The motto stamped in the trade-mark proclaimed, "Diaduction rules life." Here's how:

Attached to a brass cylinder about three inches long and one inch in diameter was a flexible fabric-covered wire some five feet long. At its end was an elastic strap and buckle. This was the "oxygen donor," whence came the name.

There was nothing to "Plug in," there being no "plug-ins" in homes of those days. The patient merely clasped the strap about his ankle, raised the window, placed the little brass cylinder on the window sill, crept into bed and all night long precious life-extending oxygen would pass through the wire and, via his ankle, bring sound sleep and longevity to the most hopeless and fragile specimen of humanity.

THOUSANDS bought them at five bucks apiece, and hundreds who had never slept in fresh air before wrote enthusiastic testimonials. It was psychotherapy, doubtless worth its price to some of the gullible.

Among the curios that stump the kids is a hollow black, hard rubber cylinder that looks like a cross between an old-fashioned telephone earpiece and a lensless spyglass. They handle it, look through it and guess wildly, but never guess that it's a whip socket.

How could they; they never saw one, many never a buggy. So we have to show them a whip which was supported on the buggy dash by the whip socket. It was a silver butt, engraved with the owner's initials. And there's a bamboo riding crop with an ivory handle.

A set of ornate engraved sleigh bells, set in springs to jingle from the vibration of the thills; canal boat deck lights, old auto oil side lamps, a coffee mill still half full of 18 cent coffee, a mustache curling iron, a Civil War drum and musket with fixed bayonet, fixed by rust.

THERE ARE OLD telephone and wax cylinder phonograph innards, dentists' forceps which perhaps pulled royal teeth, for Wills' boyhood employer was Dr. Willis, dentist to the Czar of Russia. There is an old hair trunk and a Saratoga trunk which contains an untanned sheep skin and a moth-eaten fox stole. And there is a half-ton Herring safe made in 1859—a cussed nuisance around the place. There are spinning wheels, quilting frames, scales, steelyards and quaint lanterns galore.

Will's shoe findings box once contained Sidall's Soap. It pictures a smiling woman over a washtub, smiling because, "Throw away your wash boiler. You don't have to boil your clothes if you use Sidall's."

HIS FLAKE GLUE can once contained E. R. Durkee's pepper. The grocer's price mark still is there. "40 cents a pound." Fanny says her last pepper purchase was at the rate of $4.85 a pound. Oh, well, a pound of pepper goes a long way.

Leastwise so thought Orlando Byas, who got religion up in Breesport when I was a boy. They told him that the Lord provided all things. So one night Orlando prayed at the revival:

"O Lord, send us a barrel of flour, a barrel of sugar, a barrel of salt, and a barrel of pepper; but hold on, wait a minute Lord, that's goin' to be too gol darn much pepper."

Only Orlando didn't say "gol darn"— and busted up the meeting.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Pfc. Purkey Is Still Baffled

Dear Babe: Well, I see there is still a lot of squawking on the civilian front over people being asked questions maybe in a loud voice and I still wish anybody would ever break their hearts over a GI in a similar situation. I just tried to plead the Fifth Amendment in these questions:

1. What do you mean showing up for an inspection with one button off your coat?
2. Why don't you keep your rifle clean?
3. Did you once tell the mess sergeant you was sick of baked beans and canned eggs?

I did not get nowhere pleading constitutional rights and I will bet I would get a couple of years in the brig if I clammed up and got touchy in case I was asked, "Are you loyal to the United States and if so would you mind putting it in writing?" or if the top sarge asked me, "Didn't I see you in Moscow talking with the late Joe Stalin once?"

I see a lot of people are indignant because a brigadier general, who did not answer questions fast enough, got roughed up by the quiz master, but I have never seen no tears for me when I was slow on responses to even little questions like "How come you overlooked them cigarette butts on that KP detail last night?" "Did you bug out of that last fight or was you just blown from the trench by a shell?" and "Why are you so nervous taking an enemy position? Do you want to live forever?"

What Joe McCarthy said to that brigadier general was rough, but what the skipper said to me because my answers to these questions was not satisfactory was really murder.

I am not knocking this brigadier. He was never charged with anything and just got roughed up during the give and take. Boy, I have been roughed up more than that for showing up with one shoe untied, sleeping after revielle and not saluting properly.

When the brass thinks it is not getting the right answers fast enough it can be mighty tough, too.

Well, I see Vice President Nixon is going on the air about it and Adlai Stevenson is sounding off also and there is all a great hassle back home. It is funny what a commotion can be made over anybody who gets asked questions unless he is a GI still sore from heavy clobbering.

Yours with love and kisses, Oscar.

PS—In your last letter, you asked me if I loved you as much as ever. On any question today on the civilian front it seems to be considered okay to claim Fifth Amendment. But this does not seem to me to be too loaded. I will take a chance and answer "Yes" without even consulting my lawyer.

The first Woolworth five-and-ten in Utica, New York, is celebrating its 75th birthday and we have a mild interest, since one of our first boyhood jobs was in the organization. News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO — It was Wednesday, March 15, 1944.

Allied air power devastated Cassino with history's greatest concentrated bombing attack and allied ground forces immediately charged in to drive the Germans from the rubble of the fortress town.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

How would you like to "Fireproof" the rent check you receive from income property? It is easy to do, and doesn't cost much either. A policy is available which, in the event of fire, pays the rental income for a specified time period while the property is being rebuilt. Protection from other perils such as explosion and windstorm may also be added.

Earl J. Andrews

If rental property is badly damaged, the tenant may have to cease operations for several months while repairs are made. In the meantime an owner is faced with certain fixed charges such as taxes, liability insurance and mortgage payments that may have to be met. This policy provides the regular rental income he would have received had the loss not occurred. Hence, an owner is able to meet these costs or living expenses.

The rate is exceptionally low since it is based on the income, and not the value of the building. Most owners are amazed at the small cost — some just can't believe it. But it is a fact.

So, investigate NOW! It's vital and it's cheap!

Baked Chiffon Pudding Is Fancy Dessert

Even the plainest of cooks at times feel like making something pretty and different. This baked chiffon pudding is just the thing to satisfy that urge.

Covered with a brown crust and sprinkled with toasted almonds it is a tempting dish.

Here is how this unusual dessert is made.

1 package coconut cream pudding and pie filling mix
2 cups milk
½ teaspoon vanilla
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
¾ cup light cream or top milk
3 egg whites
Dash of salt
6 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup silvered blanched almonds

Start oven for moderate heat 375F.). Select a shallow baking pan, 8x8x2, 9x9x2 or 10x6x2 inches. Or use 6 individual 4-inch baking dishes. (A deep casserole is unsatisfactory.) Choose a larger pan to use for a water bath.

Combine pudding mix and milk in a saucepan. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full boil. Remove from heat. Add vanilla. Measure out ¾ cup cooked pudding and combine with the egg yolks. Set aside this pudding-egg yolk mixutre to use for the fluffy top.

For the sauce, mix the cream with the remaining pudding. Pour this sauce into the baking pan.

For the fluffy top, beat egg whites and salt until soft peaks are formed. Add sugar gradually, beating constantly. Continue beating until very stiff peaks are formed. Then fold meringue into pudding-egg yolk mixture.

Carefully spread this mixture over sauce in baking pan. Sprinkle with almonds. Set in larger pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (375F) 45 to 50 minutes, or until golden brown. Serve warm or at room temperature. Makes 6 servings.
